Appreciation

Those members of the Abell Family in America who will read the subsequent chapters, will find records, dates and names of allied families, strangers to them in many instances, yet a part of our history both in England and America.

I fear, however, that many of our family will read the lines of history in a casual manner, as if the references were merely gathered hither and yon for the asking, not realizing that the compilation of this work is the result of untold research, of years of patient scrutiny of the archives of the past, both here and abroad.

In order to dispel the foregoing idea that may be in their minds, this foreword is addressed to any members of the Abell family who are without a full comprehension of the tremendous amount of work preceding the publication.

The volume is the result of over twenty-five years' study of the subject. But for this study, our family would be without a published history, which so few families in this country possess. The publication of the Abell Family in America record without due credit to those who are responsible for its being, without acknowledgment of the family's debt to them, would be the height of ingratitude.

The records here presented are based upon intelligent research and delving into the documents of over three hundred years. If this labor were not acknowledged by the members of the Abell family, we would be remiss in our duty to those to whom full and entire credit belongs.

To Horace A. Abell of Rochester, New York, primarily and Lewis P. Abell of Los Angeles, California, secondarily, historians of the Abell family, each and every member of our family is indebted for this priceless genealogy.

I therefore, on behalf of the Abell Family in America, salute Horace and Lewis who have made possible this publication and without whose endeavors this volume would be non-existant.

Origin of the Name Abell

From Various Sources

Abal—"There is a Teutonic word Abal, signifying strength, which may be more probably that which is found in the French Abeillard, with which we have a name Ablard to correspond."

Abel—"Many Old Testament names such as Abel, may be connected with Medieval spectacles" (plays).

Abel—Hebrew. Breath, a breath vapor, evanescence, transitoriness, vanity.

Abel, Able—Hebrew. Breath-emanation.

Abell—A name which has not a very genuine sound as a surname.

Abell—Is on the Roll of Battle Abbey, Holinshed's copy, 1080-1086.

Abell—As the name of an under-tenant in the county of Kent is given in the Domesday Survey.

Abell—Is sometimes taken from Abeele.

"The son of Abel" (Baptismal)—Much more popular in mediaval society than in the 19th century; among the peasantry, however, Abel still receives a certain amount of attention as a front name.

Abal—Anglo-Saxon, denotes strength.

Abel—Assyro-Babylonian, denotes son.

Abel—Hebrew, denotes breath, evanescense.

Abel—Danish and Swedish.

Abel, Ebel—German.

Abels, Eble—Dutch.

Abeels—Flemish.

Abbeele—Flemish.

Abell—Norman.

Abell—English.

Abell—Welsh.

Pronunciation (Lippincott's Pronouncing Biographical Dictionary): A-bĕll′. Abell, John (1660-1716)—English singer attached to chapel of Charles II.

THE ABELL FAMILY IN AMERICA

INTRODUCTION

In the adoption of the above title for this work there was considered primarily only the descendants of Robert Abell, of Weymouth and Rehoboth, Mass., as the first of this name in America, and the purpose of the subsequent pages was to show as fully as possible all those direct descendants bearing the same family name and as many as reasonably convenient of the known allied lines, who lived and acted in that brief space of time from Robert Abell the immigrant down to the present era. The gathering of these statistics is an enormous task and we make up our humble tale from many disjointed fragments, legends and anecdotes of the personages who have appeared upon the stage and upon a foundation of material collected from histories, patriotic and genealogy society records, and from private individual and family Bible records as well as public and vital records.

This work has involved endless research not only among the earliest American records but among English records prior to 1630, the date of the first immigration. Extracts from the latter have been placed in the front of the book, showing our lineal connection now proved over a century farther back to be of the Derbyshire Abell families whose arms bear the "fleur-de-lis" symbols signifying perhaps their Norman-French source or having been acquired in that service.

In addition there have been collected in the Appendix about ten more or less complete lines a few of which are of the same trunk prior to the first immigration and one of these coming to America from Leicestershire, adjoining Derby, about a century ago where they had been established for about two centuries previously, may yet prove to be of descent from one of the two brothers of Robert Abell. At first it appeared to be far beyond the scope of this work to attempt to include the most numerous—next to our own lines—the descendants of the several Abell immigrants direct from England to the colony of Maryland in the years 1649 to 1673 many of whom moved on about a century later into Virginia and Kentucky. However, in response to our circular-letter a mass of interesting records were sent in from descendants of these settlers now scattered throughout the south and southwest, and even from old Mexico. Similarly, it will be observed in the following pages that the trend of settlement of the New England lines bore consistently to the north and northwest, with two branches just over the border in Ontario, Canada. Most of the descendants of the latter have since returned to "the states" but those remaining should not be confused with other Abell families direct from England.

As a general physical characteristic it may be claimed that the descendants of Robert Abell are of a light or fair complexion with blue or gray eyes, while many of the descendants of the Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky families are of dark complexion, dark hair and brown eyes. This may indicate different national origins, such as Saxon and Norman. A mild surprise or two was encountered in finding recent immigrants of this form of the name from Italy, southern Russia and other points of southeastern Europe. With the exception of the individual of earliest Bible history it had not occurred to us but that the name in all forms was essentially "Nordic." However, the natives of Italy admit having dropped a final "o" for business convenience. The Russian families appear to be of Hebrew origin.

Considerable confusion has resulted in the alteration of the form of the name, both by members of the families and perhaps to a larger extent by general public usage or indifference.

In the half-century period preceding the Revolution nearly all branches of our lines appear to have omitted the final ell (l). It may have been in accord with a spirit of simplicity prevalent in Puritan life and institutions, and could not have been of mere ignorance or carelessness, as the signatures on wills, deeds and other public documents of the period will certify. The signatures of our immigrant, Robert Abell, and those records under his control, always appear in the form of "Abell," which has more recently been confirmed by discovery of the will of his father, George Abell, of Leicestershire, England. In the "History of Rehoboth" by Leonard Bliss, Jr., occur several references to Robert Abell, spelled with the double ell (ll), and on page 26 is appended the following note: "In transcribing the names in the list, as in most of the extracts from the ancient records, I have followed the orthography of the original." In most branches where the final ell (l) was omitted, the double ell (ll) form has been resumed within the last century, especially by those removing and settling in new locations, while in others the single ell (l) continues to the present day. The latter form "Abel" appears to be originally correct for people of German, Hebrew, Scandinavian and some other nationalities, whose number in America far exceed the combined Abell family lines.

Brief comment may appropriately be made also, on the matter of pronunciation. It will be news to the great majority of us that more than one pronunciation can be made of this name. However, the pronunciation as given for John Abell (A-bĕll′), noted singer of the period of Charles II, is becoming more and more popular among the Abell families in America. In addition to the traditional Welsh origin, and the record of Norman-French adoption into England, the historic symbol of the bell with letter "A" used in various forms by many members of the families, unknown to each other and unaware of its antiquity, may tend to verify it as the original and correct pronunciation as well as the form of the name. We may well claim this to be true in the case of Thomas Abell, the martyr, whose indelible memorial remains to attest in the Tower of London.

The earliest recorded appearance of the family name so far discovered is on the roll of knights and men-at-arms under William the Conqueror in 1066, preserved in Battle Abbey, England, where it is inscribed in the form of ABELL. King William, after he had gained possession of the lands in England by conquest, and in order better to protect his followers in their acquired rights to the soil, sent commissioners into each county for the purpose of accumulating exact statements of the property and revenue of the kingdom wherever rents and services were due to the crown. These inquisitions or surveys were completed in the year 1086, and afterwards arranged in proper order in a record called Domesday. Through the means of this record we learn that estates or manors were managed for the crown by stewards or lords as sub-tenants. Many Normans who had rendered assistance to the Conqueror were rewarded by being made tenants-in-chief to the king. Of these tenants-in-chief there were about fourteen hundred in number. They were considered the most distinguished men of that period, and stood ready at a moment's notice to render any service that the king might require of them, whether of a civil or military nature. We find the name of ABELL inscribed in this Domesday book as an under-tenant living in the county of Kent. This may have been the progenitor of the English families that flourished in various parts of England from the conquest to the Stuart period and to the present time.

The next record found is a "summons" from King Edward I, in 1272, to John Abell and wife Sue of Kent to attend the King and Queen's coronation at Westminster. This John was probably a descendant of the Abell mentioned in the Domesday book. In 1276 William Abell is a witness to a sale of land in Castle-Bromwick, county Warwick, in the same place Richard and Thomas Abell owned land in 1353 and 1362. Abell has long been a Leicestershire name. John Abell resided at Staunton Harold in the reign of Edw. III (1326-7 to 1377). A John and Isabell Abell, registered at the Guild of Knole, 1459. During the reign of Henry VII (1485-1509), another John Abell was the progenitor of the Suffolk and Essex Abells and became wealthy in the clothier business. In central England we find a William Abell as interior decorator of the Warwick Cathedral about 1500; then the martyr, Thomas Abell, who in 1540 lost his head by order of Henry VIII, for his chivalrous defense of Queen Catharine. John Abell was rector of Newbold Verdun, in the time of Elizabeth (1558 to 1602-3). John Abell, of Desford, owned 30 acres of Leicester forest, in the reign of Chas. I (1625 to 1648-9).

Some elaboration may be permissible here of a tradition persisting in many branches of the lines of Robert Abell as well as in some non-related lines, and unknown to each other, of the Welsh origin of our family and name. If indeed it has any basis in fact, it must antedate our earliest record by several centuries. The Welsh are known to be the remnant of the ancient Britons, crowded into their mountainous retreat by the covetous Angles and Saxons who came to "rescue" them from the Picts and Scots in the fifth century. Others found refuge across the channel in northwestern France, which henceforth has been known as "Brittany" and adjoins the province of "Normandy" established by the "Norsemen" about the same period. Therefore the tradition finds plausible verification in the return, under the banners of William the Conqueror, of Sir Abell to repossess his own. Even a brother of Harold had allied himself with another invader direct from the "Northlands," paying with their lives at Stamford Bridge only a month before Hastings.

Robert Abell, Esq., was living in Bryslingcote, county Derby, in 1517. He was servant or tenant of Sir William Gresley. His grandson, George Abell, of Leicestershire, in 1578 matriculated at Brasenose College, University of Oxford. He appears to have been a member of a branch which flourished in the central counties during the 16th and 17th centuries and in which the names of Robert and George predominated. In 1636 William Abell of Northampton was an alderman of London and next year was high sheriff, in which capacity he became so cordially unpopular in his attempt to enforce the king's unjust taxation scheme, that during the protectorate he was forced to seek refuge in Holland. A few years later John Abell became a favorite at the court of Charles II, possibly a son or near relative of the high sheriff being recompensed after the restoration. He was a noted "alto" singer, i. e., of high voice, the modern tenor. It appears that he also became unpopular during the revolution which deposed James II, but found great demand and much acclaim for his talents on the continent, especially in Poland then at the height of her power.

But our story digresses from the English lines in 1630 when Robert, second son of George Abell of Leicestershire, set sail in the fleet under Governor Winthrop for Massachusetts Bay. His father's will made in September the same year "cut him off" with a "twenty shilling piece," in view of having set him up in business in London of which he had made no use and more recently of having outfitted him for New England with the hope of his safe arrival. No doubt George Abell had passed on before such a message could have been received in those days. The first American record finds Robert Abell settled at Weymouth, Mass., where on October 19, 1630, his name appears on a petition, with others, to be made a "Freeman." He took the oath as Freeman on May 18, 1631. This act endowed him with full privileges and responsibilities of citizenship in the new colony, including ownership of lands, in the exercise of which he continued to acquire holdings, especially after his removal in 1643 to Rehoboth, a new settlement on the south side of the peninsula begun in 1642 by a party of colonists under the Reverend Samuel Newman, a minister at Weymouth for five years preceding. Robert Abell purchased the allotment first sold to Job Lane. His name appears frequently in public records up to the time of his death in 1663, including two appointments as keeper of the "Ordinary," from all of which it is reasonably to be assumed that he attained a position of considerable importance and was held in high esteem by his associates in the colony. In connection with the Inventory of his estate, administered by his widow Joanna, is mentioned his "eldest son," to whom was bequeathed the homestead, his "daughter Mary and five other children." His widow Joanna married William Hyde in 1667, and with her second husband moved to Norwich, Conn. Robert's eldest son, Preserved Abell, remained in Rehoboth, and his three other sons went to Norwich with their mother.

Probably all of the present day Abells of New England stock are descendants of Robert's three sons, Preserved, Caleb and Benjamin Abell. His fourth son, Joshua, did not leave any male descendants.

The second Abell immigration of record appears to be Captain Robert Abell (Appendix J) who came to south Maryland from England prior to 1649. The christian names of his immediate descendants would indicate that he and Robert Abell of Weymouth, the first immigrant, were of the same English ancestry, the Derbyshire branch. It appears that Captain Robert returned to England after settling some or all of his children in the colony. Much study indicates that his sons were Richard, Samuel and probably Cuthbert, James, and William. Captain Robert's descendants began to migrate in about Revolutionary times to Virginia, Kentucky and thence in general to the south and southwest.

Other immigrants to south Maryland were James Abell, a servant transported 1664; Charles Abell, a servant, transported 1669; Robert Abell, transported 1675; and Hendrick Abell, a cordwainer, came in on his own resources in 1667, bringing his wife Sophia and children, Joseph, Macklett and Gartrick. No descendants of these immigrants, of a certainty, have been established, although under Appendices C, G and H, there are several Abell families listed whose connections have not been determined but some of them may be the descendants of one or more of the above immigrants.

The next immigrant of record appears to be Daniel Abell (Appendix D), born in Yorkshire, England, in 1730. His first American record is his marriage to Susanna Clark of Freehold, N. J., in 1751. It is believed by some of his living descendants that he was a pirate but his prompt reception into polite society surely proves that if ever he shipped on a pirate craft, it must have been under duress.

In 1736 we find in Orange County, Va., a Joseph Abell (Appendix B) who might have been the immigrant and progenitor of the Abells in Virginia. It is quite probable that his connection with the New England families may be established through the unknown fifth one of the "five other children" mentioned in the will of Robert Abell, or a connection might be established through Richard Abell, son of Captain Robert Abell, who was in Maryland prior to 1649. Special attention is directed to the similarity to the New England families of the names, Caleb, Joshua and Benjamin, continuing with them to the present day. This can hardly be classed as a mere accident or coincidence, and may prove to be of aid in the fulfillment of that persistent tradition of "one of the brothers settled in Virginia."

Another distinct line of Abell folk of English descent has been added to our history. The immigrant ancestor of this line was Francis Abell (Appendix I), an English soldier of the Revolution, who surrendered and was taken prisoner in Yorktown, Va., in 1781, and upon being released elected to remain in America and married the daughter of an Irish immigrant who served on the American side.

Another immigrant of Abell name (Appendix E), with a family of twelve, arrived in 1823 and settled in Erie, Penn., and yet another group (Appendix A) came a few years later from Leicestershire where the family had been resident for two or three centuries, and judging from a similarity in christian names, may prove descent from George, or Richard, brothers of Robert Abell the first immigrant.

In addition to the above there have been several Abell immigrants from England direct to Canada within the last century whose descendants should not be confused with those of two branches of our own lines who settled in two localities near the Niagara frontier early in the 19th century. Descendants of the former, especially of the Devonshire, England, Abell families, now mingle with our own lines on both sides of the border. Similarly one or more pioneers of the Kentucky Abell families found themselves settled across the southern boundary in old Mexico and intermarrying with the native and Spanish families, descendants of whom have recently ventured to return as far as points in Texas.

Sincere appreciation of the labors of earlier historians and of invaluable assistance rendered by representative members and friends of the Abell families, is hereby gratefully acknowledged.

INTERPRETATION OF THE ARMORIAL BEARINGS OF ROBERT ABELL

Visitations of Derbyshire in 1569

ARMS: Argent a Saltaire engrailed Azure charged with nine fleur-de-lys Or.

ARGENT (Silver)—the Field of the Shield.
A SALTAIRE—an X-shaped cross.
ENGRAILED—With pointed edges.
AZURE—The color of the Saltaire (Viz, Blue).
CHARGED WITH—Super-imposed thereon.
NINE FLEUR–DE–LYS—French Lilies.
OR (Gold)—the tincture of the Fleur-de-lis.

The above is the literal interpretation of the Abell blazon as quoted from the Derbyshire visitation of 1569.

The Abell escutcheon is a perfect example of authentic heraldry and is, in accordance with the ancient laws of blazonry, correct in every heraldic detail of line, color, and design. Argent, or Silver, upon a shield signifies the purity and high resolve of the bearer. It also demanded of all his descendants the pledge that the family escutcheon shall forever remain without stain.

The Saltaire is actually the Cross of Saint Andrew. Ancient families were prone to adopt certain saints as their family spiritual guardian, and embodied the Saint's heraldic device in their family arms. Evidently the Abells of old favored St. Andrew, hence the presence of the Saltaire upon their shield. The saltaire is to be found in very many Scottish coats as St. Andrew is the patron saint of that country.

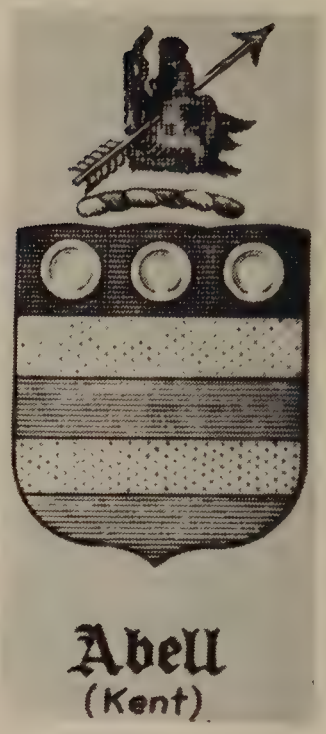
Fleur-de-lis signify that the Abells were originally of Norman-French origin and they, in all probability, settled in England during the Norman invasion. The presence of the Fleur-de-lis so prominently on the Abell escutcheon signifies that they were held in very high esteem by the Norman rulers, for only those families of the very noblest rank were given the privilege of bearing the Fleur-de-lis, which was the chief heraldic device on the escutcheon of the early Norman-French kings. It was a very rare distinction for them to share this device with others.

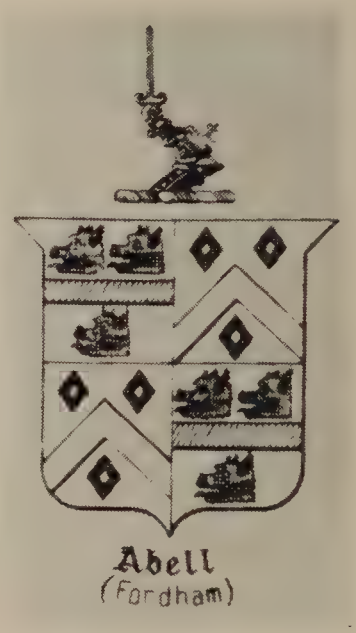
The fact too, that the Fleur-de-lis are of gold tincture is evidence of the highest honor. The notable thing regarding these Fleur-de-lis on the Abell shield is the fact that they are accurately placed upon the saltaire, viz, all points pointing to the chief, top, or honor point of the escutcheon. Ever so many of those shields having such devices show them wrongly placed.

The Abell arms are undoubtedly of very ancient origin and such charges as are borne upon their shield could only have been displayed by a family of more than ordinary power and privilege.

Family Numbers

The numerals placed at the left of the names of children in any family are repeated where the biographical record of that individual occurs. These numbers will be found in numerical sequence. The absence of such a number indicates that we have found no further record.





Armorial Bearings granted to various Abells in England

Abell Families in England

Abells of Kent, England

"Joh Abell et Consorti Sue" were among the Kentish gentry summoned by a writ of Edward I in the first year of his reign "to be present at his and the Queen's coronation at Westminster on the Sunday next after the feast of St. Valentine The Martyr." Probably the same Sir John Abell of Hering Hall in Erith, afterward knighted at the seige of Carlaverock, who was Sheriff of Surrey and Sussex in 1298, 1299, 1300 and 1301.

John Abell
Baron of the Exchequer

Walter Abell
Owner of Foots' Gray
Arms:—Argent a Saltire engrailed Gules.

Probably of knights eligible to be called to the council of the nation.

His descendant John Abell died possessed of Hering Hall about the end of Queen Elizabeth's reign, but his son Samuel Abell was the last of the family there.

A branch remained in Buckinghamshire where six of the Abells lie buried in East Claydon Church. (See "Visitation of London," 1633-4-5.)

Abells of London, England

1. William Abell of Oundell in county Northampton.

2. Thomas Abell of Oundell in county Northampton.

3. William Abell of London ("Visit." 1640), Alderman of London, was elected Alderman of Bread Street Ward 1636. He was a vintner by trade and in 1637 became Sheriff of London at the time of a financial dispute with the King. While England was enduring "the miseries of Civil War" a Royalist Merchant, William Abell, left the City of London, bought the Manor of East Claydon about 1650, with the White House, and tried to bury himself in the safe obscurity of the life of a country squire. He bore a name that was unpleasantly notorious. Master of the Vintner's Company, had been the King's tool in his illegal attempts to tax the City Companies; to escape the gibes and caricatures showered upon him in London during the Protectorate, he fled to Holland. His wealth is computed at 10-12 thousand pounds. Married Isabell, daughter of Thomas Laundiss of Beverly in county Yorks. Children:

4. WILLIAM ABELL, Esq.; Lord of East Claydon.
5. RICHARD ABELL, Uncle of Mary Abell Verney.

SUSANNA ABELL; m. Henry Field of Chancery Lane, Apothecary.

MARY ABELL, Second daughter.

4. William Abell, Esquire, eldest son, Lord of East Claydon, High Sheriff of Bucks, buried at Claydon 1661; held the Manor of East Claydon; married Anne, daughter John Wakering and Mary Palmer, of an old family of small land-owners at Kelvedon in Essex. Daughter:

MARY, born 5th April 1641; m. Edmund Verney 1st July 1662 in Henry VII's Chapel, Westminster, the eldest son of Sir Ralph Verney. She died 1715. In the parish books of East Claydon it is recorded that 20s a year are given away on the 5th of June being the day of the death of Mary, the Great Bell tolling while the money is distributed. She was the relict of Edmund Verney and continued some 27 years after his decease, Lady of this Manor; and notwithstanding her lunacy she was a woman of extraordinary goodness, piety and devotion. Four children born to them: Ralph, b. 1666, d. 1686, unm.; Edmund b. 1668, d. 1690, unm.; Mary, b. 1675, m. John Keeling, d. 1696; and a dau. d. in inf. Her property which had been the subject of so much scheming reverted to the Abell family, but in 1726 her cousin William Abell sold it to Ralph Verney.

5. Richard Abell, uncle of Mary Abell Verney, in one record is reported to have sold the Manor of East Claydon. The Church, dedicated to S. Mary the Virgin, stands on a little eminence, surrounded by elms and overlooking the vale of Aylesbury. It has a short south aisle with Norman work.... The Church was carefully restored in 1871 by the friends of the Vicar, the Rev. W. R. Fremantle, afterward Dean of Ripon. There is a marble monument to the Abell family. Son:

6. WILLIAM ABELL, Esq., sold East Claydon; m. Elizabeth, ob. 2 Jan. 1714, aet. 51. Arms: Az. a bend between 6 covered cups Or.

6. William Abell, Esquire, ob. Feb. 19, 1740; aet. 69, buried East Claydon. About 1726 the Manor and Estate were conveyed by William Abell, Esq., to Messrs. Portlock and Snow, Bankers of the Strand, London, who by lease and release dated 9 and 10 April 1729, in consideration of £25,-

790 granted their interest to Ralph Verney, second Viscount Fermanagh from whom this Estate afterwards descended with Middle Claydon, until the Manor impropriate rectory and advowson of the Church in 1827 became vested in Sir Henry Calvert Bart (now Sir Harry Verney) the present possessor, but by virtue of a settlement made in 1813 on the marriage of Thomas Digby Aubrey Esq. to Mary Wright niece of Catherine Verey, widow and relict of Rev. Robert Verney and by subsequent agreements, eleven farms in Bottle Claydon, East Claydon, etc., have been conveyed, for term of life, in lieu of provisions of the said settlement and vested in Sir Thomas Digby Bart with remainder after his decease to Sir Harry Verney Bart. The Village, consisting of small farmhouses and cottages claims no particular distinction. The remains of a mansion probably the rendevice of the family of Abell, having over the door the arms of Verney impaling Abell, was during many years converted into an inn but is now decayed. On a tablet of white marble on the North side of the Church, at the entrance to the Chancel, the arms are given, Arg. a saltire engrailed Azure Abell. impaling Az. a bend between 6 covered cups Or. Children:

RICHARD ABELL, ("Visit 1743"). A benefactor to East Claydon Parish. He settled a rent charged of 5s per annum on the Parish Clerk (probably to keep monuments of his family in a clean and decent state) which in 1786 was said to have been "lost during many years, from inability in the Church wardens and overseers to sue for the same."

BRIDGET ABELL, Ob. 28 Feb. 1743; aet. 53, bur. at Claydon.

ARMS. Arg. a saltire engrailed, Az. CREST. Issuant from a crescent a dexter hand and arm in mail with a gauntlet grasping a sword, the blade reversed Proper.

Thomas Abell, The Martyr

Abell, Thomas (d-1540), Catholic Martyr, studied at Oxford and took the degree of M.A. in 1516. Nothing else is known of his early life nor when it was that he entered the service of Katherine of Aragon; but it was certainly before the war of 1528, when he received a new year's gift from the King as her Chaplain. Later Katherine sent him to Spain on a delicate and rather perilous mission to the Emperor Charles V. Henry VIII had then instituted his suit for a divorce before the Legatine Court in England and had discovered to his surprise that his case was very seriously weakened by the fact that besides the original bill of dispensation for the marriage a brief had been also granted by Julius 2 which completely met some objection he had taken to the Sufficiency of the other document. This brief was in Spain and he determined to get it into his hands, by artifice. Pressure was put upon Katherine's legal advisers and through them she was induced to write to the Emperor earnestly requesting him to send it to England, as its production was of the most vital importance to her cause and she was informed no transcript could be received in evidence. Abell was commissioned to carry this letter to Spain but along with it he delivered one of his own to the Emperor, stating that he had been expressly desired by the Queen to explain that she had written under compulsion and that he particularly begged he would by no means give up the brief as in her letter she requested him to do. Thus the Emperor was made fully aware of the Queen's position and carefully avoided doing anything to prejudice her real interests at her written request. After his return from this mission Abell was presented by the Queen to the Rectory of Bradwell on Sea in Essex in which he was instituted in 23rd June 1530.

By this time the Legatine Court in England had been dissolved and Henry was seeking the opinion of the Universities in his favour, which being obtained, books were published by the King's authority to show that marriage with a deceased brother's wife could not be legalized by papal dispensation. To one of these publications Abell wrote an answer entitled "Invicta Veritas" which was printed in 1532 with the fictitious date "Lubeberge" on the title page, to put inquirers off the scent. He also preached boldly to the same effect and as an actual consequence was committed to the Tower where we find stated in a contemporary letter, he and his fellow prisoner, Dr. Cook, parson of Honey Lane were permitted by some extraordinary oversight to say Mass before the Lieutenant (Calendar of State paper, H. Hill, Vol. V, Nos. 1256, 1532). During his imprisonment, replies to his book were published which he in vain asked permission to see. He was however liberated at Xmas, with an injunction not to preach again till after Easter, and for a few months he was again at liberty. But in July 1533 we find search made for him again by the Lord Chancellor Audeley, yet it appears that soon afterward, if not at that very time, he was attendant upon Katherine and her household. By this time the marriage with Anne Boleyn had taken place and in December of the same year a deputation from the King's Council headed by the Duke of Suffolk waited on Katherine at Bugden, to induce her to renounce her title of Queen and accept the name of Princess Dowager. This she steadily refused to do, and the deputation endeavored at first with equal little success to impose an oath upon her servants inconsistent with that, which they had already sworn to her as Queen. Suffolk and his colleagues found upon inquiry that the servants had been instructed how to reply by Katherine's two Chaplains, Abell and Baker. They dismissed a portion of the household, put the rest in confinement and carried the two priests up to London, where they were lodged together in the same grim fortress from which Abell had been released only twelve months before. At the time Eliza Barton, popularly known as the "Nun of Kent" had recently been arrested for the denunciation of the King's second marriage and she had already made open confession at St. Pauls that she had practised imposture in her prophecies, ravings and trances. The opportunity was unscrupulously used to make her implicate as many as possible of those who had notoriously disliked the King's divorce and second marriage as confederates with herself in a disloyal conspiracy, and an act of attainder was procured against them in Parliament early in the following year. In that act Abell was named, not as one of her active accomplices, but as having been guilty of misprison by concealing her treason; and it was charged against him that he had encouraged "the lady Catherine" after her divorce still to claim the title of Queen and her servants to call her so, against the King's express commands. At that time he had as a fellow prisoner in the Tower, one Friar Forest, who like himself suffered martyrdom some years later; and it would appear that though both were for the moment spared, they both at the time expected to die together. This is known from the letters they wrote to each other in prison which were printed nearly 50 years later in Bourchier's "Historia Ecclesiastica de Martyria Fratrium" (Ingolstadt 1583). Abell was of course deprived of his benefice of Bradwell; but as the charge against him in the Act was only imprison he seems to have remained in the Tower for six years longer. On 30th July 1540 he was one of a company of six prisoners who were dragged out of the Tower on hurdles and suffered at Smithfield. Three of them however were Protestant heretics and were burned at the Stake; the other three, of whom Abell was one, were hanged, beheaded and quartered for treason, the specific charges against them being denial of the King's supremacy and affirming the validity of his marriage with Katherine of Aragon. On the wall of his prison in the Tower, during his confinement, Abell carved the device of a bell with the letter "A" on it to represent his surname, surmounted by his Christian name "Thomas." This memorial of his captivity remains and is continually shown to visitors along with the other inscriptions in the Beauchamp Tower.

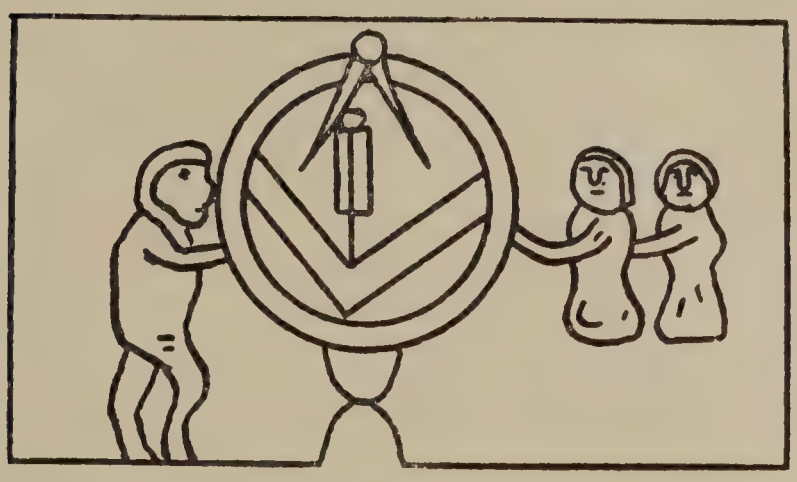
The Tomb of John Abell



The tomb of John Abell in Sarnesfield Churchyard, Hereforshire, England, bears on the top slab a curious representation of Abell himself and his two wives. Also a circle surrounding the compasses, square and plumb. All these are roughly carved in relief and much weathered. The following inscription in double lines is above the ornaments:

THIS CRAGGY STONE A COVERING IS FOR AN ARCHITECTORS BED
THAT LOFTY BUILDINGS RAIS'D HIGH
YET NOW LYES LOW HIS HEAD
HIS LINE AND RULE SO DEATH CONCLUDES ARE LOCKED UP IN STORE
BUILD THEY THAT LIST OR THEY THAT WIST
FOR HE CAN BUILD NO MORE
HIS HOUSE OF CLAY COULD HOLD NO LONGER
MAY HEAVEN'S JOY BUILD HIM A STRONGER

IN MEMORY OF
JOHN ABELL (ARCHITECT)
WHO DIED IN THE YEAR 1694
IH THE 97TH YEAR OF HIS AGE

Vive ut vivas in vitam aeternam

In the contract for the new roof of Abbeydon Church he is styled John Abell, of Sarnesfield, carpenter. He built the several Market Houses of Brecon, Kington, and Leominster, etc., and is no doubt properly styled Architector, as Mr. Blashill says, a competent master builder. The same writer seems to consider the ornaments as being of later date than 1694.

Robert Abell of Rehoboth, Mass.

His English Ancestry and His Descendants

Early Abells in the County of Derby, England

Several branches of the Abell family lived in the County of Derby, England, in the sixteenth century. One branch lived in Creighton and Uttoxeter. The brothers John and Richard Abell were the progenitors of this branch. Richard died before 1536. Henry Abell who died in 1540 was the earliest known of another branch, living in Sommersall. A third branch of the Abell family lived in Norbury. The earliest found of this branch was Nicholas Abell, who died about 1557.

Most of the American Abells are descendants of Robert Abell, who lived in Stapenhill, also in the County of Derby. There is a probability that all the branches of the Abell family in the County of Derby were descendants of a common ancestor.

George Abell, buried Sept. 13, 1630. Parish Register, Church at Lockington, Leicestershire, England.

Children, born in England:

GEORGE; eldest son. Mentioned in his father's will.

4. ROBERT; late apprentice of London. Emigrated to New England in 1630.

RICHARD; third son. Mentioned in his father's will.

MARY; mentioned in her father's will and in that of her Aunt Dorothy Cotton 1646.

NOTE: Record found in Hinman's Early Puritan Settlers of the Colony of Connecticut regarding a George Abell, 1647. Probably the elder brother of Robert. Under Appendix A an Abell line from Leicestershire, England, about 1850, in which the name "Richard" predominates.

FIRST GENERATION IN AMERICA

4. Robert Abell, born in England; died June 20, 1663 at Rehoboth, Mass., son of George and Frances Abell of Hemington, Leicestershire, England; married Joanna (———), probably in England.

Joanna died in America, after 1682, buried probably in Norwich First Burying Ground.

Robert was mentioned in his father's will 1630 as then living in New England. He came to America probably in the fleet with Gov. Winthrop, which arrived at Charlestown, Mass., June 1630 (Savage).

The first record of Robert in America is at Weymouth, Mass., included in a list as desirous to be made a Freeman, October 19, 1630 and he took the Oath of Freeman May 18, 1631. He is mentioned at the Quarterly Court, held at Boston December 4, 1638 and June 2, 1640 at Weymouth he is mentioned in regards to land owned by John Ffussell, John Stable and James Snooke, October 26, 1642 to May 21, 1644.

Robert removed from Weymouth in 1643, probably following Rev. Samuel Newman, the real founder of Rehoboth. Rev. Newman was minister at Weymouth for four and a half or five years, then with a majority of his congregation, in 1642 removed to a place called by the Indians Seekonk, to which he gave the name of Rehoboth.

The first meeting of the original planters of Rehoboth, to be found on record, is dated at "Weimoth" the 24th of the 8th month (October) 1643; the next meeting of the proprietors was held at Weymouth, the 10th day of the 10th month (December) 1643. About the year 1643 a joint agreement was made by the inhabitants of Sea-conk alias Rehoboth, for the bringing in of their estates; that so men's allotments might be taken up according to person and estate, also for carrying on of all public charges both for present and future; furthermore the means and interest of what is here expressed is that by which lands now granted by the Court of Plymouth to the town, are to be divided according to person and estate, as is expressed in a list of 58 names. The 28th name on the list is Job Lane (underneath written) "now Robert Abell's," £50; it is evident that Robert Abell was written in after he had bought of Job Lane.

At a meeting of the town February 18, 1646 it was agreed to draw lots for the new meadow, and to be divided according to person and estate, only those that were under £150, estate to be made up 150. Robert is the 41st name on a list of 46 who drew for lots.

The 26th of the 12th month, 1651 it was agreed that Robert Abell and Richard Bullock should burn the commons round about, from the Indian fence, all on the neck, to the new meadow near, and so far about the fresh meadows as may be convenient; and they are to have 20s, for their pains, and to begin the 15th of March next, and to be paid out of the first rate.

The 28th of March, 1653 it was concluded and agreed upon, that Robert Abell should have three acres of meadow on the north side of the line, next the town, next the line that parteth the land of the purchasers and the town of Rehoboth. This meadow was given them by Mr. Prince, Captain Standish and Mr. Winslow.

Mention is made of Robert in Court Orders, June 29, 1653, June 10, 1661 and April 22, 1662.

On February 1, 1654 at a town meeting, Robert was ordered to keep the Ordinary, and on July 3, 1656, Plymouth, Mass., he is allowed by the Court to keep an Ordinary at Rehoboth. (An Ordinary is a place where meals are provided.)

Robert was at the Court of Elections at Plymouth, June 3, 1657 and on Jury at the General Court at Plymouth, June 4, 1657 and took the oath of fidelity in 1657.

On June 22, 1658 at a town meeting, lawfully warned, lots were drawn for the meadows that lie on the north side of the town in order as followeth, according to person and estate. Of the 49 names on the list, Robert was the third on the list who drew for lots. It appears that this division was

King Philip's Chair

A rare and interesting piece of furniture of the very earliest days of the New England colonies has recently been brought to light. This is a turned or Carver chair, dating about 1625 and possessing the name of "King Philip's Chair." Aside from being the rarest of early American pieces, it is priceless from an historical view point.

The chair was originally the property of one Preserved Abell of Seekonk, son of Robert Abell, the immigrant, and remained in the family for succeeding generations until purchased by a Dr. Mason of Providence, who kept it until his death, when it was bought at auction by the Rev. L. S. Woodworth, whose family held it until June 9th, 1921, when it was purchased from them by Duncan A. Hazard of Newport, R. I.

The story about how and why the cognomen "King Philip's Chair" was earned was told to its present owner, and is proved by old papers which he later discovered in the seat of the chair. The gist of these papers is as follows:

During King Philip's War and two days after Pierce's fight, on March 28th, 1676, a party of Indians crossed the river and laid the town of Seekonk in ashes, which meant the burning of forty houses and thirty barns. These houses were around the "King of the Town," now called "Seekonk Common." Only two houses were left standing, one of them being the house of Preserved Abell. Not willing to leave even these, the torch was applied to the dwelling of Abell. As the flames mounted, the Indians seated themselves contentedly around the fire to enjoy the conflagration, and one of the warriors brought out this chair, which is a large heavy armed chair, for their chieftain, Philip. When the blaze died down, and before leaving, an Indian threw a fire-brand into the chair, which consumed the bottom, but left the high frame, only scorching the parts to which the bottom was attached. These bear evident marks of having been burned, as in some places the wood is burned away as much as half an inch.

It is said that while on good terms with the English, Philip was in the habit of visiting the Abell family, and that they always brought out this chair, the big armed chair of the house, as a mark of distinction and honor, for the use of "King Philip," as he styled himself.

At this period is mention of a cushion being in the seat of the chair with the king's signature on it, but this has been lost through the centuries. Otherwise, the chair is as the famous Indian used it for his temporary throne, and the scars made by the fire bear mute witness to the fact.

See "History of King Philip's War" and "History of Rehoboth or Seekonk," each telling a story of this chair.

of land afterwards included in the North Purchase, near Attleborough and Cumberland.

At a town meeting on May 26, 1668 lots were drawn for the meadow lands in the North Purchase and there were 79 names on the list who drew for lots. Samuel Luther is the 2nd on the list, Goody Hide the 5th, Children's Lands the 6th and Preserved Abell the 8th. Samuel Luther married Mary, daughter of Robert Abell. Goody Hide was Robert Abell's widow (Joanna) who married William Hyde in 1667. Preserved was the eldest son of Robert Abell. "Children's Lands" next to Goody Hide on the list were probably Robert Abell's other children, Caleb, Joshua, Benjamin and Experience.

NOTE: REHOBOTH NORTH PURCHASE, now Attleborough (Mass.) and Cumberland, R. I. It was bounded on the West by the Pawtucket River, now Blackstone; North by the Massachusetts Colony on the bay line (so called); East by territory which was afterwards the Taunton North Purchase, now Mansfield, Norton and Easton; and south by the ancient Rehoboth, now Rehoboth, Seekonk and Pawtucket. This purchase included Attleborough, Cumberland, R. I., and a tract of a mile and a half in width extending east and west (which was annexed to Rehoboth as an enlargement), and a part of Mansfield and Norton. This purchase was afterwards, viz., Apr. 10, 1666, granted and confirmed by the Plymouth government to the inhabitants of Rehoboth.

This land was a Massachusetts Bay Colony possessions and placed under Dedham for local jurisdiction. This probably accounts for the mentioning of Caleb Abell (Robert's son) in the Colonial Records at Dedham in 1665, indicating that this is as near as Caleb ever got to living in Dedham.

"An Inventory of ——— estate of Robert Abell of Rehoboth Deceased taken the 9th of Aug. 1663." The only real estate was "an house and land" £130. "The sum totall is £354, 17s, 9d." "The house and land taken out as the oldest sonnes" £130; "A bed and furniture to the widdow" £7; "To Mary Abell given by her father as her full pte in a Cow and feather bed" £8; "Rests Due to the widdow as her thirds" £66, 19s, 6d; "and to the other five Children each of them" £26, 16s.

The appraisers, Stephen Paine, Thomas Cooper and Peter Hunt, were deposed to this Inventory the 18th of Feb. 1663 before Thomas Willett. This division of the estate was approved of and established by the Court held at Plymouth the 3rd of Mar. 1663–4, "attested by me Nathaniel Morton Clarke of the said Court." The above held at Plymouth the 3rd of Mar. 1663–4, and deposed unto by Joanna Abell, widow.

Administration granted unto the widow, Joanna Abell, to administer on the estate of Robert Abell deceased Feb. 29, 1663-4.

Captain Willett is requested to administer an oath to Widow Abell of Rehoboth for the tenth of the inventory of the estate of Robert Abell deceased Oct. 5, 1663–4.

In connection with the inventory of the estate of Robert Abell are specifically mentioned his "eldest son, widow, daughter Mary and five other children," bequeathing the homestead to his "eldest son." Therefore, inasmuch as Lieut. Preserved Abell was the only child to remain on and in possession of the homestead at Rehoboth, it appears reasonable to suppose that he was in fact the eldest son.

7. SERGT. CALEB, b. 1646, prob. at Rehoboth.
8. JOSHUA, b. 1649, prob. at Rehoboth.
9. BENJAMIN, at Norwich, Conn., 1670.
10. EXPERIENCE, m. 1680, Dea. John Baldwin.

CHILD. Some records mentioned a James Abell, marrying Sarah Bowen, Dec. 27, 1686 but this appears to be incorrect. The original vital records of Rehoboth state that Sarah Bowen married Preserved Abell, Dec. 27, 1686. The vital and probate records and register of deeds do not list any individual by the name of James Abell. No record has been found that shows the name of this child. It is quite probable that a connection with the Maryland–Virginia–Kentucky families may be established through this unnamed child. (See appendix B.)

NOTE: Joanna, after the death of Robert Abell; m. 2d, in Rehoboth, June 4, 1667, William Hyde, who prob. came to America in 1633 with the Rev. Thomas Hooker, sojourned a short time at Newton, Mass., and in 1636 removed with him to Hartford, Conn., where he was the first minister. The time is not ascertained but he owned lands in Hartford as late as 1639, and probably went to Saybrook, Conn., soon after that. William Hyde was one of the original proprietors of Norwich, Conn., in 1660, and a man of considerable importance among the settlers frequently elected as a townsman, or selectman. He d. at Norwich, Jan. 6, 1681. No information has been obtained as to his first wife. He had two children by her, Samuel Hyde, b. about 1637, m. Jane Lee, and Hester Hyde, who m. John Post.

In the Book of Grants of Norwich, is a deed recorded to Caleb Abell, son of Joanna, and a deed to Caleb Abell, Jr., grandson of Joanna, which reads as follows: "ffour acres of meadow More or less in seven acre meadow with some swampie land bounded westerly on the highway with a bowing line and northerly upon meadow of Lieut. Joseph Backus and southerly upon the Commons and easterly upon the river, which was Given to Caleb Abell by his ffather William Hide deceased and ordered to be recorded to him by John Post Executor to the will of sd Hide." Recorded Dec. 11, 1710.

Caleb Abell, Jr., of Norwich sold to William Hide of same Norwich, "all that parcel of land which was given to me by my Grandfather William Hide and is lying and being upon the Northward corner of that which was his home lot and is estimated two acres more or less bounded northerly and easterly on the highway and westerly and southerly on John Post and William Hide." Recorded Feb. 2, 1701–2.

6. Lieut. Preserved Abell, born in 1644 at Rehoboth, Mass. (G.S.ins.); died there August 18, 1724 in the 80th year of his age; buried in the old Newman Cemetery in what is now East Providence, R. I. He married 1st, Martha Redaway, September 27, 1667, born March 15, 1648 at Rehoboth, buried March 1, 1685-6, daughter of James Redaway. He married 2nd, Sarah Bowen, December 27, 1686 at Rehoboth. She was born February 7, 1656 at Rehoboth, died there May 14, 1704 (G.S.ins.), daughter of Richard and Ester (Sutton) Bowen. He married 3rd, Mrs. Anne West of Boston, intentions at Rehoboth, December 30, 1706, died December 11, 1723 at Rehoboth.

In May 1668 he was eighth on a list of those who drew lots for land in the North Purchase. In 1670 he is listed as a freeman of Rehoboth, and the same year John Butterworth and he are listed as surveyors of highways in Rehoboth. He was constable of Rehoboth in 1671. In 1684 Samuel Peck and Preserved Abell are listed as Grand Jurymen from Rehoboth.

In the Rehoboth census of February 7, 1689 he is listed as a Sergeant. Ensign in 1690, and Lieutenant in Capt. Samuel Gallup's Company in the romantic expedition of Sir William Phillips against Quebec, Canada, in 1690.

He served in King Philip's War under Major Bradford and advanced £7:15:01 towards the expenses of carrying on the war. His father-in-law James Redaway advanced £5:14:04 towards carrying on the war; his brother-in-law John Redaway served in the Narragansett Expedition. His home was burned in the destruction of the town by King Philip's ally and leader, Agawan, who sat in the same chair which he often occupied as a guest at the Abell homestead before the war.

His home was replaced by another now owned by Frank Allen Hill, which was the second one built. It seems to the writer (without a careful examination on his part) that the type of this house is not old enough to have been the second house, and perhaps is the third, although the second house may have been altered over to its present style which is of a later date.

The above is from a speech delivered by Rev. L. S. Woodworth, pastor of the Newman Congregational Church, at the dedication of Goff Memorial Hall, at Rehoboth, May 10, 1886.

married Sergt. Caleb's mother Joanna Abell. He married 2nd, Mary Miller, June 25, 1701, born 1687, died after Aug. 7, 1731. She was the widow of Stephen Loomer of New London, Conn., and daughter of George Miller.

Sergt. Caleb Abell is first mentioned in the Colonial records at Dedham in 1665, petitioned for Freeman in Dedham, May 3, 1665; in 1668 moved to Norwich, Conn. In the original purchase of land when Norwich was settled, six acres having 16 rods front was assigned to Robert Wade, this he sold to Caleb Abell in 1677 and it was afterwards known as the Abell homestead. This property abutted on Town Street 16 rods, on the home lot of Morgan Bowers 72 rods, on the river 18 rods and on John Birchard land 74 rods. The location may be seen in a map on page 67 of "Caulkins' Norwich." On December 18, 1694 Caleb was appointed to keep his house as "an ordinari or of entertayment" for the year, or until another be chosen.

In 1697 Caleb and ten others were allowed to build a seat on the east side of the meeting house on the Leanto beams for their convenient sitting on the Lord's Days. Rev. Huntington's book of "Old Houses of the Ancient Town of Norwich" names 36 men whom he supposes to have been original proprietors; but one of these was Richard Wallis and another was Caleb Abell, who in 1660 was only 14 years of age. On May 2, 1728 Caleb deeded 12¼ acres of land to his daughter, Esperience Hide. On January 12, 1727-8 Caleb deeded to his son Noah his home lot, dwelling house and barn, all lands adjoining his home lot and lands over the river (Yantic) his pasture land lying northerly and northeasterly of William Hide dwelling house (which house was on the other side of Town Street and a little to the east) lying in two parcels, together with land on both sides of Bradford brook on north side of road leading to Lebanon, except 1½ acres on south east of brook and land near Benjamin Abell's dwelling house which he gave to his son Samuel, reserving to himself and his wife Marey the dwelling house during his life and for hers after his decease, also liberty to his daughter Hannah to dwell in said house so long as she remains unmarried and a passageway across home lot to his son Samuel to Samuel's own land.

Caleb joined the first church of Norwich before 1701. He was Sergeant of the Norwich Train Band in 1701 and Selectman in 1682, Constable in 1684 and 1706 and Townsman in 1689. In the book of Grants in Norwich, there are 38 or more items to Caleb Abell.

Will of Sergt. Caleb Abell:

8. Joshua Abell, born 1649, probably at Rehoboth, Mass.; died March 1, 1725 (inscription on gravestone at Norwich, Conn.); married Mehitobell Smith, November 1, 167–, born July 4, 1655 at Marshfield, Mass., died March 14, 1684-5, daughter of Nehemiah Smith and Ann Bourne of New London, Stratford, New Haven and Norwich. Ann Bourne was daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Bourne. He married 2nd, Bathiah Gager, November 1685, born 1660, died March 31, 1723, (inscription on gravestone at Norwich, Conn.), daughter of John and Elizabeth Gager who was son of Dr. William Gager.

Joshua was Constable in Dedham, Mass., and frequently chosen Townsman. He moved to Norwich, Conn., 1677 and became a considerable land owner, 44 land grants are listed to him of a total of about 1000 acres and he was buying others. He presented the West Church Society of Norwich, February 24, 1720-1 with the lot on which was erected the first meeting house. In 1691 Joshua exchanged his lands east of the river for the Norwich town homestead and other privileges of John Allyn, son of Robert Allyn.

His nephew Benjamin (31) probably lived with him. He lived near the center of West Church Society, now Franklin, Conn., and joined this Church in 1724. On June 12, 1684

28. ELIZABETH, b. Oct. 1695 at Norwich.

BATHIAH, b. Aug. 1697 at Norwich; d. prob. before Nov. 6, 1722.

NOTE: Several genealogies credit Joshua Abell with a daughter by the name of Hannah but Joshua Abell's will dated Nov. 6, 1722 mentions Anne Fitch and Martha Smith as his two oldest daughters and names his other four daughters who were living at that time but none by the name of Hannah, indicating that Hannah was not his daughter as she was older than his two oldest daughters and was living the same time, when Joshua made his will.

9. Benjamin Abell, died at Norwich, Conn., in 1699, and buried probably in Norwich First Burying Ground; married Hannah (———), probably in 1678, died after 1717, may have been daughter of John Baldwin. She married 2nd, David Caulkins, Sr., of New London, Conn., before 1717, probably 1700, after the death of his former wife Mary, daughter of Thomas Bliss of Norwich. David Caulkins, Sr., will dated June 20, 1717, died November 25, 1717, son of Hugh Caulkins of Norwich.

On January 4, 1692 Benjamin owned 13 acres of land, abutting on the lands of Peter Cross and Caleb Abell and the Highway, land formerly belonging to Jonathan Ginnings; 50 acres of land abutting on the Commons and near Joshua Abell's land; 12 acres of land abutting on Sucksquatomecut Brook, on the Swamp, the Commons and Joshua Abell's land; 10 acres of land abutting on Beaver Brook and the Commons, these 10 acres a grant from the Town, layed out February 1693-4. Benjamin conveyed three acres of land on the brow of the hill next to forty acre hill, December 21, 1693 to Peter Cross in consideration of two acres of land adjoining his house; on the same day, Peter Cross in consideration of three acres of land next to forty-acre hill, received from Benjamin Abell, conveyed two acres of land adjoining the said Benjamin Abell's land where his house standeth.

Court held in New London, June 6, 1699, the inventory of the estate of Benjamin Abell of Norwich deceased was exhibited, proved, accepted and ordered to be recorded. The Court granted administration to the widow and also distributed to her one-third part of the movable estate forever, and one-third part of the real estate during her natural life; to son Benjamin a double portion at twenty-one, and to six daughters equal portions at the age of eighteen years or day of marriage. By request of the widow, Joshua Abell (8) and John Baldwin were appointed overseers.

Children:

29. HANNAH, b. Jan. 15, 1679.
30. MARY, b. 1680.

    LYDIA, b. abt. 1683; d. Oct. 2, 1731; m. Daniel Williams son of Augustine and Hannah (Brown) Williams of Killingworth, June 19, 1711, b. Sept. 9, 1683, d. Dec. 2, 1737; m. 2nd, Martha 1734. Both members of the Goshen Society Church of Lebanon, Conn.; she joined Feb. 1730. Children: Daniel, b. Aug. 14, 1712, m. Elizabeth Toogood; Isaiah, b. Mar. 1, 1715, m. Lucy (Jerusha) Roberts; Samuel, m. 1740, Mary Roberts.
31. BENJAMIN, b. abt. 1687.
32. MEHITABLE, b. abt. 1689.
33. JEMIMA, b. abt. 1692.
34. EXPERIENCE, b. abt. 1693; m. Jan. 26, 1720 Thomas Wood in the Congregational Church of Franklin, Conn.

    Jemima and Lydia with their husbands helped to form the Goshen Society Church at Lebanon, Conn.

NOTE: Several genealogies have credited Benjamin Abell and his brother Caleb both with a son by the name of Benjamin, and Caleb's son was supposed to have married Lydia Hazen. The early land records of the town of Norwich, Conn., indicate that there were only two Benjamins and show conclusively that Benjamin who married Hannah deeded all his land to his son Benjamin who married Lydia Hazen, and he in turn deeded most of this land to his sons, his two sons Benjamin and Simon receiving the largest parcels. Further records show deeds from Benjamin to his sons, Andrew, Elijah, Oliver, Altheus and Isaiah.

The confusion undoubtedly arose from the custom of orphaned children, especially minors, being located in the homes of their next of kin and to all intents becoming members of such families. We therefore find Hannah, probably oldest daughter of Benjamin, in the household of Joshua from the death of her father in 1699 at least until her marriage in 1702 to Ebenezer Metcalf. Similarly,

Mary and Benjamin are found attached to the household of their Uncle Caleb. Four other daughters, Lydia, Mehitable, Jemima and Experience, probably youngest members of the family, may have remained with their mother and probably were taken into the household of David Caulkins whom she married.

10. Experience Abell, married 1680, at Guilford, Conn., Deacon John Baldwin, born December 5, 1654 at Guilford, died January 5, 1705, at Lebanon, Conn., son of John and Hannah (Birchard) Baldwin. He went to Lebanon with his father in 1660, was one of the nine original members embodied in Church State, November 27, 1700, at Lebanon. He was chosen with Josiah Dewey one of the Deacons; was a Selectman in 1717.

John Baldwin, Richard Bushnell, William Clarke and Caleb Abell testify to the nuncupative will of Deacon John Baldwin, of Lebanon, made 8 January 1704-5: son John to have double portion; younger sisters (of the son) referred to.

Bond of Experience Baldwin, of Lebanon as administratrix on the estate of Deacon John Baldwin, 7 June 1705; sureties, Caleb Abell and Thomas Baldwin, of Norwich.

Inventory taken 13 February 1704-5. Children's names: Experience, in age 21 years; John 18; Mary 13; Mahitabell10; Tabitha 6. Mrs. Experience Baldwin made oath, 5 June 1705, to inventory of deceased husband's estate.

Children:

16. Caleb Abell, born April 1677 at Norwich, Conn.; died after 1746 prob. at Lebanon, Conn.; married February 20, 1704-5, Abigail, born March 14, 1678-9 at Norwich, died November 11, 1748 at Lebanon, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Bliss) Sluman of Norwich. Thomas was at Norwich 1663; Constable 1680, died 1683. Sarah was born Aug. 26, 1647, died August 29, 1730. Inscription in Lebanon Old Cemetery: "Here lies the body of Abigail Abel, wife of Mr. Caleb Abel, a prudent and virtuous woman, who after short illness departed this life in hope of life eternal, Nov. 11, 1748 in the 70th year of her age."

Caleb was Constable 1719, 1720, 1727 to 1732. On February 8, 1703-4 Joshua Abell of Norwich, Yeoman, conveys 15 acres of land to Caleb Abell Jr. of Lebanon, Mason, indicating Caleb's occupation. On April 10, 1735 Margaret Abell Douglas, widow of New London, and Hannah Abell of Norwich, convey their rights in 40 acres of land to their honorable grandfather John Post of Norwich deceased, later Joshua Abell buys the rights of the same land from Caleb Abell and Zachariah and Joanna Loomis.

Rev. Orlo D. Hine on July 4, 1876 in an address found in a book called "Early Lebanon" says there is a tradition that the Abel house, which stood where Mr. Robert Peckham's house now stands, was a sort of fort (stockade, I conclude) to which the inhabitants fled in time of danger.

Will of Daniel Abell:

> In the name of God, Amen—I Daniel Abell of Lebanon in the County of Windham & State of Connecticut, being this 26th day of December A. D. 1787, firm in body & sound in mind & memory but knowing it is appointed to all men to die, not knowing how soon I am, I do therefore make & ordain this my last Will & Testament—and primarily & first of all, I recommend my Soul into the hands of God who gave it, & my Body to the earth to be buried in a decent Christian burial, at the descretion of my Executor hereafter named—And as to the worldly Estate God has given me, I do give & bequeath in the following manner, after my Lawful debts & funeral charges are paid.
> Item—Give & bequeath to my beloved Wife Sarah all my Household Goods during her natural life, also the improvement of all the lands that I have not given to my Sons (viz) Daniel, Elijah by deeds & also the land I have given to my Grandsons Eliphalet, Ezekiel & Simon, Sons of my deceased Son Eliphalet by Deed & Will.
> Item—I give to my Son Daniel for his part of my Real Estate, above what I have given him by deed, all the Land I have the South side of the Highway leading to Exeter Meeting-house, except five acres of the Meadow I had of Noah Webster, after my decease & my Wifes decease, to him & his Heirs forever.
> Item—I have given to my Son Jonathan, heretofore by Deed of land I had of Abel Marsh, in full of his part of my Real Estate—I also after my decease give him one third part of my wearing apparel.
> Item—I give to my Son Elijah, above what I have given him by deed, nineteen acres of land, adjoining to the Land given him by Deed, running a paralel line from the Highway to the rear of my Farm, after my & my Wife's decease to him & his Heirs forever also one third part of my wearing apparel—also five acres of the Meadow I had of Noah Webster.
> Item—I give to my Grandsons (viz) Eliphalet, Ezekiel & Simon, Children of my Son Eliphalet deceased, five acres of land adjoining to the thirty acres I have given them by deed, running a parallel line with the same; provided they quit their right & title to the Norwesterly part of the House I now live in & pay to their Sister Lydia, her part of sd House & get an acquittance from her of the same & deliver the same to my Executor, then the aforesaid Eliphalet, Ezekiel & Simon are to take possession after my decease to them, their Heirs forever.
> Item—I give to my Daughter Mary, three pounds, thirteen shillings & eight pence, above the twenty one pounds, eight shillings and four pence I have already given her, to her & her Heirs forever.
> Item—I give to my Daughter Betty, one pound, eight shillings & five pence, above the twenty three pounds eleven shillings & seven pence I have given her heretofore, to her, her Heirs forever.
> Item—I give to my Daughter, Sarah, three pounds, fourteen shillings & three pence, over & above the twenty one pounds five shillings & nine pence I have heretofore given her, to her, her Heirs forever.
> Item—My Will is, that the above Legacies that I have given to my Daughters shall be paid out of my moveable Estate as far as they shall go, & the rest to be paid out of the land I have given to my Sons Daniel & Elijah by Will if they refuse to pay the Money to be paid in one year after my & my Wife's decease the moveable part to be paid at our decease.

Item—My Will is, that my Son Daniel, have one third part of the fruit that grows in my Orchard for the term of six years after my decease.

Item—My Will is, that my wife, Sarah, have the improvement of the South front Room in my House, also a privilege in the Kitchen. And I do also appoint my Son Daniel to be my lawful Executor to this my last Will & Testament, signed sealed, published & declared by ye sd Daniel Abell to be his last Will & Testament the day & year above written.

In presence of us witnesses:
John Gurley Daniel Abell (Seal)

He conveys a parcel of land March 8, 1775 to Phineas Peck.

In 1837 Rev. Alfred Abell described his grandfather, Benjamin Abell, as > a tall, slender built man of feminine constitution and not a little afflicted with the hypochondria, a complaint to which the whole race, I believe, were somewhat subject. He was a calm, peaceable, well disposed man, and was strict to maintain the externals of religion, at least in his family, which many public professors do not strictly regard.

> My grandmother's name before her marriage was Abigil Gile, born at Lebanon Crank, so called by a peculiar turn in the main road where her father lived. She was a woman of low stature, thick set, and of a firm constitution, resolute and persevering, enterprising and economical in the management of whatever came under her control or care; but few excelled her in housewifery. She was well favored, had black piercing eyes, brown hair, and well stored with animal fire which did not fail to explode whenever her orders were disregarded, and which soon put her commands in operation.

LUCY, b. July 14, 1797.
PRESERVED, b. Nov. 20, 1800.
HIRAM, b. Dec. 7, 1801; at North Providence; d. Nov. 23, 1822 at Havana, Cuba.

77. Capt. Caleb Abell, born December 12, 1763, at Rehoboth, Mass.; died July 26, 1842; married Lois, daughter of Noah and Anne Read, November 23, 1788. She was born December 23, 1763, died April 14, 1790. Caleb married 2nd, Elona (Shepherdson) Hodges, February 5, 1791, born December

3, 1767, died June 14, 1847, widow of Daniel Hodges of Norton, Mass., and daughter of Capt. Zebadiah and Deborah (Cook) Shepherdson. She married 1st, Daniel Hodges, March 12, 1787.

The office of Town Clerk was in the Abell family over 50 years. In 1801 Caleb Abell was elected Town Clerk of Rehoboth, this territory being part of that town. When what is now East Providence Centre became Seekonk and was set off from Rehoboth, which was in 1812, Caleb Abell was elected Town Clerk of Seekonk, and retained the office as long as he lived. When he died, his son, Preserved T., more familiarly known as Thompson, was elected and held the office until 1851.

The town records made by Caleb Abell attest that for those times he was an accomplished Town Clerk and his records compare favorably with those of the Town Clerks of the present day. He wrote a round distinct hand and the language is grammatical and terse. The records are much more legible than some which have not been made one-quarter of the time.

He was a Deputy from Rehoboth to Plymouth Court in 1811, and served in the War of 1812 as Quartermaster with rank of Captain. He also served in various offices during a period of thirty years.

Caleb's will, dated July 21, 1842, left fifty dollars to Elona Leonard, daughter of his second wife by her first husband.

Children by Elona Shepherdson:

79. Joshua Abell, born November 21, 1755 at Rehoboth, Mass.; removed with his father to Goshen, Mass., 1767; died there August 18, 1833; married December 12, 1787 Dolly (Dorothy), born 1762 at Norwich, Conn., died September 3, 1803, daughter of Simeon and Catherine (Phelps) Parsons of Northampton, Mass.; married 2nd, March 8, 1804 Phebe Cathcart, who died November 11, 1846, aged 84 years.

In like manner to his father, Joshua, Jr., entered actively into public and church affairs, serving as town clerk and selectman, and in 1793 was with a few others invited to act as "quirister" in the Congregational Society. On June 25, 1780 he paid the optional fine for exemption from the draft for six months. He had served at the battle of Bennington and in the campaign culminating in the surrender of Burgoyne at Saratoga. After the action at Bennington, he had a miraculous escape. A stray bullet struck his gun barrel, just over his heart and glanced off leaving him unharmed. This gun has been passed down the family as an heir-loom and the imprint of the bullet is yet discernible.

Children by 1st wife:

149. WILLIAM (Capt.), b. Sept. 15, 1788.
ANNE, b. Dec. 19, 1790.

80. Benjamin Abell, born September 8, 1757 at Rehoboth, Mass.; died February 10, 1808 at Goshen, Mass.; married Persis Banister January 27, 1780.

Removed with his father's family to Goshen in 1767. He appears to have taken a less active part in public affairs than other members of the family. He was notified May 19, 1777 of being drafted for service in the Revolution but probably did not see active duty until after January 10, 1778 up to which time he purchased the optional discharge. The following additional notes were supplied in a letter dated Oregon City, Ore., May 27, 1908 from Robert Banister Abell, son of Asa, and grandson of this Benjamin. After his death, all of the children younger than Asa, with Elizabeth the eldest, removed with his widow to northern Vermont.

He graduated at Yale College in 1760; settled at Fairfield, Conn., where he was married. In May 1767 he was Comm'd as lieutenant in the militia and became captain in October 1774. About this time he was made sheriff of the county which he remained until 1806. In June 1776 he was commissioned as captain in the regiment under Col. P. B. Bradley, raised for defense of the state and serving in the New York campaign. In July 1779 while Major recruiting for the Connecticut Line, the invasion of Fairfield by the British occurred and his home was the second to be burned. His losses were computed at £691 on which account his taxes were abated.

From 1794-7 he was Brigadier General of the Militia, and represented the town in the General Assembly from 1777 to 1799. His wife died soon after, leaving him childless, and he returned to the old homestead in Bozrah where he died. He has been aptly characterized by the historian as "well-informed, energetic and upright."

Cong. Church of Lebanon-Columbia, org. 1720; married September 10, 1754, Lydia, born February 1, 1736, died April 15, 1814, daughter of Henry and Bethia (Spofford) Bliss. Henry Bliss born October 25, 1701 in Enfield, Conn., died August 28, 1761; Bethia Spofford born May 23, 1705.

Jonathan probably was named after his grandfather Jonathan Crane. He resided in the Third Society of Lebanon, called Goshen, Conn., now Exeter. He and his wife were members of the Goshen Cong. Church of Lebanon.

Jonathan bought a farm on April 4, 1794 in Hebron, Conn., consisting of over 200 acres of land and buildings, where he evidently lived until March 23, 1798, when after selling some small pieces in the meantime, he sold the farm and buildings for $1766.00, and afterwards sold 10 acres and a right of way on February 8, 1800, giving his residence as Lebanon.

He was in the campaign of 1758, French-Indian War 1755-1762, Third Regiment, Col. Eleazer Fitch, First Company, entered Service May 24, 1758, discharged October 28, 1758, said to have rendered service in the Revolution as a recruiting agent, probably without pay. He may have been the person recorded as mustered in under "Lincoln Men" July 28, 1778.

Will of Jonathan Abell:

In the Name of God, Amen. I Jonathan Abel of Lebanon in the County of Windham and State of Connecticut in New England, being this 24th day of April A. D. 1801, weak and infirm in Body, but of sound & disposing mind & memory, do make & ordain this my last Will and Testament:—

And principally and first of all I recommend my Soul into the hands of God who gave it; and my Body to the Earth to be buried in a decent christian burial at the discretion of my Executors, hereafter named: And as to the worldly Estate God hath given me—I give & bequeath in the following manner—(viz)

Item—To my beloved wife Lydia, I give and bequeath one third of my Real Estate to use and improve during her natural Life—also one third of my Household Furniture.

Item—I give and bequeath unto my two Sons Jonathan & Elias all my Real Estate, equally for quality and quantity—upon their paying my lawful Debts & Legacies to my Daughters hereafter mentioned, forever to them & their Heirs.

Item—To my daughter Betty, I give one third of my indoor Moveables and what doth not Amount to One hundred Dollars, to be paid to her in Money in three years after my decease, by my Sons, with Interest after two years, to her and her Heirs forever.

Item—I give to my Daughter Olive, one third of my indoor Moveables that I have not given to my Wife, and what she falls short of one Hundred Dollars to be paid in money by my two Sons in four years after my decease with Interest after two years, to her, her Heirs forever.

Item—I give to my Daughter Laty, the remainder of my moveables, what that falls short of a Hundred Dollars, to be paid in Money by my two Sons in five years after my Decease, with Interest after two years to her, her Heirs forever.

Item—I give to my Daughter Theoda, five pound in four years after my decease.

Item—I give to my Daughter Lydia, five pound in four years after my decease.

Item—I give to my Daughter Sarah five pounds in four years after my decease.

I do hereby constitute my two Sons Jonathan & Elias, Executors of this my last Will and Testament.

Signed, sealed, published, pronounced by the sd Jonathan Abel to be his last Will & Testament the day & year above written in presence of us Witnesses

ABIGAIL, b. Oct. 31, 1774; m. Ira Abell. (See No. 125.)

117. Frederick Abell, born July 22, 1753 in Norwich, Conn.; married Philena Hazen November 8, 1775 in Norwich. Frederick appears to have removed and settled at Lempster, N. H., about 1776, probably in the same party with his brother Phinehas, their parents and Uncle Elijah Abell with second wife and family. Writing in 1837 his nephew the Rev. Alfred Abell states that his uncle's family have married and scattered here and there.

118. Phinehas Abell, born October 3, 1742 in Norwich, Conn.; died in Lempster, N. H., August 15, 1829; married September 25, 1764, Susanna, born 1741, died February 20, 1813, daughter of Ebenezer Wales, Esq., of Union, Conn., and 2nd wife Deborah Ward, granddaughter of Dea. Nathaniel Ward of Windham. Removed about 1775 from Norwich to Lempster, where his noted son Truman was born. His arrival probably preceded by ten years that of his Uncle Elijah Abell. Phinehas was blind for many years.

Phinehas Abell included in a list of Colonel Bellows' Regiment, marched from the county of Cheshire at the requisition of Major General Gates to reinforce the Army at Ticonderoga October 1776. He was a Sergeant and served 26 days.

In 1837 Rev. Alfred Abell describes his father, Phinehas Abell, as a man of a middling stature, dark sparkling eyes, an honest, upright man in all his dealings with mankind, and sustained an unblemished character. He attended to the externals in religion whatever he possessed in heart. He was of a slender constitution and seldom ever undertook in matters of deep enterprise. He followed farming as his occupation, by which means he gained a comfortable living for himself and family through life. My Mother's name before her marriage to my father was Susanna Wales and daughter of Ebenezer Wales, Esq. of Union. He was a pious godly man and highly esteemed as a Christian, and a civil magistrate. He was eminently useful in society and was a man of business and of property. He married two wives by whom he had twenty children. From among his sons arose a physician, a justice of the peace, an attorney at law, and a worthy deacon of a respectable Baptist Church and also a Baptist minister who soon died to the great disappointment of his venerable father. Susanna was the oldest daughter of Mr. Wales by his second wife, and who in time became my affectionate mother. She was a person of rather low stature, well built and of a fair countenance, possessed of a firm constitution, resolute and persevering, comely featured and of a light complexion, red or sandy hair, black eyes, was of a kind obliging disposition which she gave proof of whenever circumstances required it of her. In her bosom was awake all the tender sympathies of humanity which is one of the brightest ornaments ever lavished by nature on the female character, in which the poor and needy, the friendless and distressed found relief as far as her means would allow. She truly feared God and honored religion at home and abroad.

128. Abel Abell, born September 14, 1757 in Norwich, Conn.; died March 14, 1841 aged 84 years, at Middle Haddam in the town of Chatham, Middlesex County, Conn.; married Lucy, daughter of Daniel and Susannah (Spencer) Hubbard, December 21, 1783, died about 1800; married 2nd, Jemima, daughter of Ozias and Elizabeth (Young) Brainerd, April 28, 1805, died December 31, 1851.

Abel Abell served in the War of the Revolution, enlisting April 7, 1777 as a private in Lieutenant Smith's Company, Colonel Belden's Regiment of Brigade of Gen. Erastus Walcott, stationed at Peekskill, March-June 1777. Discharged May 11, 1777. Re-enlisted June 4, 1777 as a private in Captain Warner's Company, 3rd Regiment "Connecticut Line" formation of 1777-81, under Colonel Wyllys, raised for the New Army or "Continental Line." Assisted in repelling enemy at Danbury, Conn., April 26-7; served in Parsons' 1st Brigade under Putnam along Hudson until January 1778, taking post at West Point, and began construction of permanent works there. Encamped at White Plains with Washington's main army. In 1779 served in General Heath's wing on east side of Hudson. Its light company under Captain Champion detached to Meigs' Light Regiment at Stoney Point, January 1779. Wintered at Morristown, N. J., then with main army along Hudson until reorganized. Abel Abell was probably among captured prisoners of war at fall of Fort Washington, together with his elder brother Elijah and several other members of the Abell families, being recorded in a list of 8000 men confined on the prison ship "Old Jersey." Surviving these hardships he was granted a pension for faithful service in March 1818. Other records show service as Lieutenant and as paymaster. Elijah Abell was also pensioned for service in the Revolution, probably as a commissioned officer; in later years appeared lame probably resulting from wounds received, and died unmarried at the age of 87 years.

After the war Elijah and Abel Abell established a saw and grist mill at the foot of Chestnut Hill, continued after their deaths by Jabez Lathrop Abell, who later removed to Illinois. They established a reputation for enterprise, integrity and worthy citizenship. Children born in Middle Haddam (Chatham), Conn.

Bethia Ellis was a daughter of Rev. John and Bethia Ellis, second pastor of the Franklin Church. Roxana Peck, the next younger sister of Cynthia, married Rev. Samuel Nott, Jr., son of Rev. Samuel Nott the third pastor of Franklin Church. Rev. Nott and Roxanna went to India as missionaries in the early days.

They removed to Topsham, Me. He was a mechanic and blacksmith and did the iron work on the first vessel built by the Pattens of Bath.

Jehiel and Cynthia Abell of Bowden (Bowdoin) Co., of Lincoln, State of Maine, gave a deed of two tracts of land, 2¾ and ¾ acres to William and Fredus Ladd of Franklin.

This land, located to the west of Peck hollow, was a share set out to Cynthia Abell in the distribution of the estate of her father, Syvil Peck of Franklin. Deed recorded September 23, 1834.

Samuel Nott, Jr., founded the Nott School of Wareham, Mass.; his son Gordon was City Engineer of Chicago in the eighteen-seventies.

137. Gurdon Abell, born November 5, 1788 in Franklin, Conn.; married April 1, 1817 Anna Morgan of Norwich, Conn., daughter of Seth and Desire (Bromley) Morgan. Soldier of the War of 1812 as Musician under Daniel Gager, Jr., service June 1 to 16, 1813. Permanently settled at Augusta, Ga., about 1820 and became a wealthy cotton dealer and slaveholder, and in later years became eccentric and estranged from his Yankee relations. Gurdon Abell sold land (at Smith Corners) to Harvey Morgan, a brother of Anna. Harvey died and the Abells had the land again.

Children:

234. ALEXANDER GURDON, b. June 29, 1818 in N. Y.
SUSAN ANN, b. May 19, 1821 in Augusta.
ZERVIAH ABIGAIL, b. Sept. 5, 1822 in Norwich.

236. OLIVER CLINTON, b. July 3, 1827 in Augusta.

138. Azel Abel(1), born July 9, 1763 at Norwich, Conn.; died September 7, 1833; married (———) Nicholas, died 1797; married 2nd Polly Phipps, born 1778, died 1857-8, in Elizabethtown, N.Y.

He is said to have lived in Mass. prior to his residence at Orwell, Vt., to which he had probably emigrated with his father, Isaiah Abell, after the Revolution. He may have married in Mass. His eldest child, Oliver, probably named for his Uncle Oliver, was born at Orwell in 1789. During the Revolution while yet in his "teens" Azel acted as scout in the Lake Champlain region, and fulfilling a resolve returned and made his home in the "Pleasant Valley" district, and on September 11, 1789 purchased a tract of land from Noah Ferris on the north bank of the Little Boquet River, where he erected a log building which became Elizabethtown's first hotel, and so repeated the vocation of his ancestors Benjamin and Robert. He entered actively into local political affairs, including supervisor, inspector, road commissioner, etc., and also served as captain in the war of 1812. He appears to have carried the 'Abel' form of his name into the new settlement and it has been handed down to the present day among his descendants.

For proof of enlistment in Revolutionary war, see "Vermont Revolutionary Rolls, 1775 to 1783" by John E. Goodrich, pages 392, 554.

139. Wyllys Abell, born June 11, 1777 at Norwich, Conn.; died October 22, 1865; married Mehitable Nichols, April 15, 1805 at Sudbury, Vt., born December 5, 1784 at Lyndenburgh, N. H.; died July 13, 1841. Removed with his father and settled at Orwell, Vt., succeeding to the homestead there which became known as "Abell's Corners." He was a farmer and also kept an inn at the homestead. His father Isaiah first removed to New Hampshire and a short time later to Bennington, Vt., soon after the battle at that point but in 1787 removed and settled at Orwell, on a tract selected during military activities.

Capt. Daniel Hodges Abell, No. 141

It has been a family tradition that the cane shown in the photograph was brought to this country by Robert Abell the immigrant, in 1630, and at the time the Abell house in Rehoboth was destroyed by fire in King Philip's War, one of the Abell women carried the cane with her when she sped to the garrison house for safety. The cane was last in the possession of Dr. Daniel T. Abell, of Sedalia, Mo.; was destroyed at the time his residence burned about 1890.

In the will of Caleb Abell, July 21, 1842, he leaves to his son, Daniel H. Abell, "my Ivory Headed Cane, which came to me from my ancestors, and it is my request that it be handed down to the male heirs of our Abell family."

On April 2, 1864 Mr. Abell wrote an acknowledgment of his election as an honorary member in the Orwell Pioneer Association, contributing a lengthy and most interesting article on his personal experiences as a pioneer of that district. He was then 87 years of age.

He appears to have returned the favor as was customary in those days and accompanied his brother Azel in establishing the latter's settlement at Elizabethtown, N. Y. (See "Pleasant Valley, a History of Elizabethtown, Essex County, N. Y.," by Geo. Levi Brown, 1905.) His name was also written as "Willis" but he was probably a namesake of Colonel Wyllys, commander of the regiment in which his father had served together with many other members of the family, in the "Connecticut Line" formation of 1777-1781.

146. Arunah Shepherdson Abell, born August 10, 1806, at East Providence, R. I., died April 19, 1888, at Baltimore, Maryland; married in Philadelphia, by Archbishop Francis P. Kenrick, Mrs. Mary (Fox) Campbell, December 23, 1838. She died February 16, 1859 at Baltimore, daughter of John and Sarah (Taylor) Fox, of Peekskill, N. Y. Rose Campbell, daughter by her first husband, was rescued by Mr. Abell from being run over by a street vehicle, which happily ending incident led to his marriage to her mother.

In 1822, Mr. Abell was a printer apprentice with the "Providence Patriot." In 1827 he became foreman of a large printing office in Boston. Mr. Abell, Azariah H. Simmons and William M. Swain together established a penny newspaper but found in Philadelphia a better field, where they established the "Public Ledger" in 1836. A year later Mr. Abell was delegated by the partnership to supervise a similar venture in Baltimore and on May 17, 1837 "The Sun" made its first appearance. On September 13, 1851 the "Sun Iron Building" was occupied, the first of its kind. Following the deaths of his partners in 1855 and 1868, Mr. Abell became the sole proprietor of "The Sun," selling his interest in the "Public Ledger" in 1864.

A pony express of sixty exclusively owned horses was organized by Mr. Abell to carry The Sun's war dispatches from Mexico via New Orleans, permitting The Sun to publish the latest news in Baltimore, prior to the U. S. Government's information at Washington. By this express, the first report of the capitulation of Vera Cruz was published by The Sun before the fact was known in Washington, and it was through Mr. Abell that President Polk and his Cabinet were first informed of the capitulation, April 10th, 1847. The cost of the express was $1,000.00 a month, a tremendous amount for those days. The use of carrier pigeons as a medium of news transmission was employed by Mr. Abell, who established in Baltimore a pigeon loft containing between 400 and 500 carrier pigeons for news service. In order to obtain the latest news from Europe, pony relays were established between Halifax and Annapolis, Nova Scotia, a distance of 150 miles, thence dispatches were relayed by boat and train to Boston and Baltimore, the distance of 1,000 miles being covered in fifty hours.

He was the first printer to adopt the Hoe rotary press and also the telegraph as a news agency, being associated with Prof. Samuel F. B. Morse in developing the latter, and he was an incorporator of the first telegraph company, always keeping in the front by utilizing improved methods. In 1887 he transferred the management of "The Sun" to his three sons and celebrated its semi-centennial by receiving them as co-partners. On August 9, 1892 "The Sun" was incorporated as the A. S. Abell Company.

His public service was almost identical with his brother William's but at different periods, serving in the very same official capacities, except as to the funerals, and being chosen captain of the same military company. He was also associated with his brother in the trades of carpenter and mill-wright. Capt. George Abell on account of sickness was unable to serve in War of 1812 and his place was filled by his older brother William.

At one time he was the only one in Goshen who voted the Abolition ticket. His home was a station on what was known as the "underground railway" for fugitive slaves at a time when such action was contrary to law. They would come to the house at night and he would feed them and send them on to the next station. He frequently said that some time there would be a war because of slavery and he lived to see it begun.

Church of Lebanon-Columbia, organized 1720; died after 1830 probably in Duanesburg Township, Schenectady County, N. Y.; married Lucy, born about 1767 to 1769, died after 1830, probably in Duanesburg, probably daughter of William Treadway of Lebanon, Conn. Jonathan and his brother Elias were named executors of their father's will, executed January 15, 1803. Jonathan is mentioned in the Census of 1810 as head of family in Columbia, Windham County, Conn. (Lebanon town was geographically located in Windham County in 1800, and Columbia town was organized from part of Lebanon Town in 1804.)

On November 8, 1794 Jonathan bought one acre of land and part of a building and rights therein, which was bounded north on Capt. Samuel Jones' land, west on the highway and east on his father's land, "also the new kitchen so-called with the chimney in it and cellar under it with cellar walls, except the east end which joins the west end to the west side of the house, also another small building adjoining the west side of the old house and is called the shop room. Said old house being the same that Joseph Waters dec'd lived in and in which I now live, also the new part of said Dec'd's barn being on the east end of the old barn with liberty of passing to said buildings and of taking them away or occupying them." The Grantor was Philemon Waters. No record found where he disposes of this property, but presume he went with his father as this land joined his father's and it was sold together March 23, 1798. This property located in Hebron, Conn.

Between the years 1810 and 1813, Jonathan with his family removed from Lebanon, Conn., to Duanesburg Township, and settled on a farm. On October 5, 1813, he mortgaged to Silas Marsh for a part of a farm on Lot No. 243 in Duanesburg. This property is located on the Albany-Buffalo turnpike, about one mile from Esperance. He and his wife were living 1830 in Duanesburg as shown by the census of that year.

He married 2nd, Hannah Wilcox December 14, 1847 by Rev. Kimball Hadley. She was born 1810, died November 29, 1852. He married 3rd, Rebecca Staples June 15, 1853. Removed with his father from Norwich to Lempster, N. H. in 1774, from Lempster to Acworth, N. H. about 1814; became a noted minister. Written by Rev. Alfred Abell in 1837:

The writer of this history bears the name of Alfred, and am the third son of the said Phinehas and Susanna Wales and was born on the first day of March, 1772, and ever have been of a feeble feminine constitution, but well stored with animal fire which is quick to explode and too often on trifling provocations to my unspeakable grief. My stature is five feet and ten inches. Dark hazel eyes and dark brown hair, which has now become white with age; quick in motion, easily irritated but soon calm and reconciled, ever possessing more ambition and fortitude than strength of body to perform and accomplish, by which means my constitution has often been broken down, and my health injured, as to beauty, comliness and character I leave for those who have ever been best acquainted with me to judge.

The writer of this sketch married for his wife, Julettea Wheelock, born at Mendon, Mass. Her mother being left a widow with a large family her farm being previously disposed of removed to Alstead, N. H. where her children being eight in number were brought up. Julettea having a sister married and living in Lempster came to live with her, which circumstance brought her within my knowledge and she became my wife, by whom I have had ten children, two sons and eight daughters, buried my two sons and a lovely daughter in their infancy. Seven daughters living and all married. One living in the State of Ohio, the other six nearly in the vicinity where it is my fortune to reside. I have at this present time 23 living grandchildren all in comfortable circumstances and peaceable habitation for which reason I have abundant reason to bless God.

My parents removed from Norwich to Lempster in 1774. My grandparents and my father's only brother soon removed to Lempster also where they all died and were buried. My father's uncle Elijah Abell with a large family of children by a second wife, he and his wife were buried with my parents and grandparents in the same solitary ground near Dodge's pond. My uncle's family have married and are scattered here and there. My brother Truman still resides in Lempster. We are the only two with our families that bear the name of Abell in N. H. surely it will soon be said of us, "They are dead! and have gone down to the graves of their fathers and in a few fleeting years our children and our children's children will sleep with us in the same solitary mansion. What is human life? It is but a vapor that appeareth but a very little while and vanisheth away. Oh how important it is to me the exchange of worlds, a scene which we cannot escape neither is there any discharge in that war."

H., Sarah (Sally), daughter of Mr. Lane of Newport.

He was an astronomer, botanist and chemist of note and was author and publisher for 39 years of the "New England Farmers' Almanac." A kinsman of the northern Vermont families writing to a cousin said he knew a Truman Abell by reputation only and once while passing through Walpole, N. H., his home was pointed out. He kept a combination book and drug store. This may have been a son and namesake of the doctor.

In 1837 Rev. Alfred Abell describes his brother Truman as a tall, slender built man of a feeble constitution, blue eyes, sandy hair.

Very reserved and modest in his manners, bordering hard on diffidence, and much to his disadvantage talks but little, and seldom laughs beyond a strong smile, a man of great study, and possesses a deep penetrating mind. He is an able physician, a real philosopher and well read in astronomy, and publishes one of the best Almanacs in New England, is a worthy member of society and I doubt not but a Christian although in religious sentiment is a Swedenborgen. He married for his wife, Sally Lane, the daughter of Esq. Lane of Newport N. H. by whom he has eleven children, four sons and seven daughters; has buried two sons and three daughters, has two sons living at this present time.

He was both shipwright and millwright by trade, and operated a mill on his homestead.

Daniel Abell left home with the consent of his father in the 20th year of his age (his mother having been deceased some years) and came to Canada on the 13th of April, 1806. A letter from his father dated June 10, 1815, reads: "In your letter you mention that you have become what the world calls a Quaker. Why, Daniel, if you will practice what you profess I shall not think you the worse for that."

Several of the children of Daniel Abell marrying into Baptist families, the later generations have nearly all become members of the latter.

Y., April 1806, died June 28, 1889 at Woodstock, Ont. (See Hilton Family Genealogy by L. P. A.)

He removed to Vernon, N. Y., about 1812 and about 1825 settled at St. Johns, Ont. Robert was a hat-maker by trade, and a noted musician and conductor of chorus and choir. It is uncertain whether Robert Abell entered Canada before his marriage. If so, it would appear that they returned to the American side for the ceremony which was performed at Lewiston, N. Y. At the outbreak of the Canadian rebellion of 1837, Robert Abell known to be a yankee and perhaps in sympathy with the rebel cause, was arrested and held in custody until the following day when he was identified and released by Capt. John Street of the local militia, a close friend of the family. Temperamentally he was not inclined toward politics.

224. Martha Abell, youngest daughter of Abel Abell, by his 2nd wife, Jemima Brainerd, was born at Chatham, Middlesex County, Conn., May 1, 1806; married April 10, 1822, Amos Rich, son of Amos and Rachel Rich. Even in those pioneer days not many daughters had been so competently trained that at 16 years like Martha Abell, they were accomplished in all the household arts of the period including cooking, brewing, spinning, weaving and sewing, and prepared to continue in these duties for her own husband and the large family of ten children to follow.

In 1897 an application for membership as an "Original" daughter of the American Revolution was filed on her behalf by her daughter, Miss Anna Rich, and accompanying the certificate the customary gold spoon was received, which was made the occasion for a notable celebration.

At this time she had survived five of her ten children and was grandmother to thirty and great-grandmother to forty descendants.

Even before ten years of age she had contributed her share to the demands of her country's defence and in later years could easily recall how her oldest half-brothers were encouraged to join the pioneering migration in "covered wagons" to the "far west" beyond the Ohio leaving the younger of them to represent the family in the military activities of the War of 1812.

In the Civil War, Mrs. Rich sent four sons and two sons-in-law to the front, two of her sons paying the last measure of service, one during the war and the youngest after the war of disease contracted in the line of duty.

Until past 90 years of age, Mrs. Rich, who had been making her home with her son Herman and family, always insisted upon performing her share in the household affairs but in March 1897 she fell and sprained or fractured her right leg and was confined to bed for the greater part of the time remaining until her death on May 22, 1902, aged 96 years, probably the record for longevity in the Abell family. This was closely approached by her nephew, Robert Abell of Aylmer, Ont., who died on February 13, 1923, but two months short of 95 years.

Children, all born at the home place in Chatham, Conn.:

BERNICE, b. Dec. 24, 1823; enlisted Aug. 7, 1862 Co. H, 21st Reg't; d. Jan. 4, 1863 at Falmouth, Virginia.

225. Amiel Abell, born April 6, 1808 at Middle Haddam, Town of Chatham, Conn.; died October 6, 1888; married October 9, 1833, Mariette, daughter of Eleazer and Elizabeth (West) Veazey, born October 9, 1810, died October 4, 1888, in Town of Chatham (East Hampton), Conn.

Member of firm of Goff, Abell & Buell, bell mfrs., later, with others establishing the East Hampton Bell Company on the site of Cook's grist mill. Mr. Abell was a fruit-farmer specializing in culture of apples.

Mr. and Mrs. Abell were active members of the Cong. Church. Mr. Abell was a member of the Church building committee in 1854 under whose directions the present building was erected.

Note: The mother of Amiel Abell, Jemima Brainerd, is said to be a descendant through Hannah Spencer, first wife of Daniel Brainerd, from John Churchill, 1st Duke of Marlborough, whose only son dying in infancy, the title and name descended to the eldest son of his eldest daughter who married Sir Michael Spencer. The younger sons retained both surnames, Spencer-Churchill, and three of them came to America, two settling at Hartford and one, the youngest, Gerard, at Middle Haddam, Conn., and dropping the name, Churchill. (See Dr. Field's Genealogy and the Brainerd Genealogy.)

Note: The mothers of both Irvin Hiram Abell and Josephine Polly White were descended from Elder Brewster, through Patience Brewster who married Gov. Thomas Prence of the Plymouth Colony. Josephine was also descended from Peregrine White and a Scottish Lord, Kilborne or Kilbourne. (See Strong Genealogy, and for Gov. Prence, see Memoirs of American Governors by Jacob Bailey Moore, Vol. I, page 139.)

234. Alexander Gurdon Abell, born in New York State June 29, 1818; died December 28, 1890. Removed with his father who settled at Augusta, Ga., about 1820. Records of his youth are unavailable. He was appointed secretary to President Tyler, after whose term of office he arrived on November 6, 1847 as one of the pioneer adventurers in California. He was president of the Pioneers society 1857 to 1860, state senator in the 14th session 1863. He was a prominent Mason and was Grand Secretary of the Free and Accepted Masons from 1855 to the time of his death (Hist. Abst. of S.F., vol. I, 1897, Shuck).

235. Sophia Augusta Abell, born in Augusta, Ga., April 7, 1824; married a Mr. Gully and probably made their home in Detroit, Mich., about the same time as her brother Oliver C. Abell.

Child:

ORRIN; Judge in Detroit, Mich.

236. Oliver Clinton Abell, born in Augusta, Ga., July 3, 1827 after final removal of the family from Conn. His father became a wealthy cotton dealer and slave-holder which may have been the cause of an estrangement arising between himself and his New England kinfolk. In later years he became very eccentric, forbidding communication with his home people.

In 1850 probably owing to a lack of sympathy for slavery institutions he removed to Detroit, Mich., and the following year to Dearborn, a suburb where he taught school for a short time, then joining the gold rush to California where he remained in association with his brother, Alex G. Abell, until 1856. Returning to Michigan, he was elected treasurer of Dearborn and followed farming until 1862 when he was appointed an officer of the draft and deputy provost marshal during the war. He was exempted from active service by disability but supplied a substitute at a cost of $800. He also served as deputy assessor and collector of revenue until removed by President Johnson. In 1867 he was elected State Senator and was active on committee work, being chairman on Railroads, and as a member of committee on Supplies, procured a large gilt frame and mountings for the portrait of General Lafayette for the senate chamber. He was a director of the Detroit, Lansing & Northern R. R. He established the village of Nankin, and its first hardware store, and served as postmaster, president of the village and trustee.

From 1875 to 1878 he was Supt. of the Wayne County Poorhouse, and in 1884 returned to reside in Detroit. (See Reports and Collections of the Michigan Pioneer and Historical Society, vol. XXVI, page 300.)

237. Oliver Abel(1), born at Orwell, Vt., August 16, 1789; died April 2, 1880, at Elizabethtown, N. Y.; married Polly, daughter of Dr. Asa Post. She was born September 16, 1799, died March 3, 1834. He married 2nd, Almina Barnum of Vermont.

In 1798 when but nine years of age, he removed across Lake Champlain with his father and settled in the "Pleasant Valley" district, afterwards Elizabethtown, N. Y., and grew up in close association with the vanishing Indian life of that locality, handing down to the present day many interesting experiences of those pioneer times.

He served as corporal of cavalry in the Plattsburgh campaign of the War of 1812, and was pensioned for this service. (See also N.Y. Gen. & Biog. Record, Vol. XXXI, page 196, 1900.)

Caleb Abell, of whom her husband was a grandson. Their families had removed from Seekonk (Rehoboth), Mass., in 1828 and settled in Bradford County, Pa.

Dr. D. T. Abell first practiced medicine in Athens, Bradford County, Pa., then for some years in Darlington, Wis., and finally in Dedalia, Mo., where for several years he had associated with him his nephew Dr. George Abell Russell, who later established his practice in Boonville, Mo., seat of an adjoining county. It was probably Dr. D. T. Abell's "shingle" hanging out on which the family name was recognized by Otis P. Abell of Waseca, Minn., when in Dedalia in connection with contracts for improvement of streets. They had no children.

246. Bethiah Wheaton, born February 12, 1832; married Ralph W. Russell, October 12, 1853.

ROBERT A., b. Oct. 7, 1849; d. Apr. 12, 1923; m. Emma F. Stevens Nov. 12, 1881.

252. Edwin Franklin Abell, born May 15, 1840 at Baltimore, Md., died February 28, 1904; married Margaret Curley, November 25, 1863, daughter of Henry R. and Margaret (Toy) Curley. She died February 13, 1874. He married second, Elizabeth M. Laurenson, May 26, 1884, daughter of Francis B. and Elizabeth (Carroll) Laurenson.

Mr. Abell was educated at the public schools and the Dalrymple Old University School. Entered his father's newspaper office at the age of 16 and was closely identified with the business of "The Sun" until his death, assuming control and direction of policy May 1, 1894. During his administration "The Sunday Sun" was organized, the first publication appearing in 1901. It was due to his forethought that "The Sun" emergency building was erected for just such a catastrophe as the great fire of February 7-8, 1904, in which "The Sun Iron Building" was destroyed. This disaster, however, proved too great a strain and he did not survive to see the new Baltimore rise from the ashes of the old. Mr. Abell was an excellent judge and collector of art. He was a member of the Athaenum, the Maryland and the Baltimore Country Clubs, but his chief relaxation was found in his home circle.

Children by Margaret Curley, born at "Litter Louna," Pikesville, Md.:

402. MARY, b. Nov. 11, 1864.
403. ARUNAH SHEPHERDSON, b. June 2, 1866.
404. WALTER WILLIAM, b. Feb. 28, 1872.

253. George William Abell, born in Baltimore, Md., December 21, 1842; died May 1, 1894; married November 29, 1871, Jane Frances, daughter of George W. Webb. He prepared for college at Dalrymple's School in Baltimore and was graduated at the University of Maryland with highest honors in 1861. Mr. Abell then took up the study of law and was admitted to the Baltimore Bar in 1864 and practiced in the office of Charles J. M. Gwinn for two years before entering upon a newspaper career in the office of "The Sun." Beginning in the counting room, he progressed through the news and editorial departments to assume charge of publishing "The Sun" and acted as counsellor to his father, Arunah S. Abell. After the death of his father, the A. S. Abell Company was incorporated (August 9, 1892) and Mr. Abell was elected President and General Manager, continuing the management of the paper until the time of his death. "The Sun Almanac" was first issued at his suggestion in 1867 and soon became an authority on physical and historical matters of the state. Jane Webb Abell, widow of George William Abell, married W. B. Duke of Leonardtown, Maryland.

Children:

405. CHARLES SHEPHERDSON, b. June 25, 1876.

JANE M., b. Oct. 31, 1872; d. Sept. 15, 1939; m. Francis T. Homer, April 23, 1902. Child: Jane Palfrey, b. August 21, 1903; m. Ferdinand C. Lee, April 17, 1929.

ANNIE F.; died in infancy.

254. Walter Robert Abell, born in Baltimore, Maryland, February 11, 1849; died January 3, 1891; married Sallie, daughter of Hugh Sisson; married 2nd, June 6, 1889, Philomena M., daughter of Henry and Ellen Bogue.

He inherited the literary tastes of his father but developed them along scholastic rather than journalistic lines. He attended Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., and graduated with high honors at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. He devoted post-graduate years to study at various European Universities and in travel, and was a constant contributor to "The Sun" and to literary magazines which found ready demand for his verse. He was associated with his brothers in the conduct of "The Sun." He was devoted to his home and family and was an ardent patron of out-door sports.

Children by Sallie Sisson:

406. MARIE LOUISE, b. Apr. 9, 1883.
407. SALLIE SISSON, b. Dec. 6, 1884.

Children: (Dr.) J. M., Milford, Mass.; Lucinda and Lorinda, twins.

261. Caroline Parsons Abell, born April 27, 1831; died January 1920 at Amherst, Mass.; married Joseph Blake May 27, 1857. She was noted as a school teacher.

Children: 3 sons.

262. George Austin Abell, born at Goshen, Mass., January 14, 1839; died November 9, 1911 at Meriden, Conn.; married October 31, 1865 Alice A. Holcomb. Removed with his father to Conway, Mass. in 1860, where he enlisted in the 1st Mass. Cavalry, Company F., Capt. Thos. L. Motley, August 11, 1862 and was a member of the regimental band. He was honorably discharged at the expiration of his enlistment at Boston, Mass., November 7, 1864.

On November 21, 1863, he, with 11 comrades, was captured by Major Moseby's troopers at Warrenton, Va., and taken into the Blue Ridge Mountains. They were almost recaptured the first night by their own command, but were hurried on upstream toward Piedmont where Moseby awaited, and sent them on to General Stewart's headquarters. They were forced along several days with but little to eat, toward Madison C.H. Mr. Abell's natural caution and daring stood him in good stead and together with a stranger comrade he silently planned escape.

One dark rainy night when their ever-watchful guards exhausted had succumbed to sleep they quietly slipped past and ran over mountain, through stream, valley and forest, unable to sense their bearings, but determined to cover the greatest distance possible before daylight, when a friendly hay-stack afforded concealment for the day. And none too soon, for they heard the baying hounds and clattering pursuit pass within a few feet of them. "Faith of our fathers with us still," they thankfully reflected, and ventured out only at night, weak and weary from lack of food, finally deciding to ask for help and food and proper directions from the next man they should meet. Fortunately a negro, as they had hoped, soon came along and hearing their appeal, said, "Why, golly massa, yous' going jes all wrong." Following his directions and avoiding the settlements they did not again meet with anyone, and fortunately, as their resolution to proceed prompted instant action as necessary. Finally reaching the Union Lines after ten or twelve days their destiny again intervened, for, following a battle, their sentries had orders to shoot on sight, but from force of habit probably, they were first challenged by the sentry they approached and came safely again into their own lines. (See "History of Conway, Mass." by C. S. Pease.)

A year later he was at home again. He married Alice A. Holcomb, and in the spring of 1870 they removed to Greenfield, Mass., where he engaged in carpentering, until in 1879 he lost his left hand in a planing machine. This necessitated a change in business and they lived for a few years at Northampton, Mass., and in 1882 he established a mattress factory in Meriden, Conn. He was a true type of Christian gentleman, devoted to home and friends, a member of the Congregational Church as were his fathers before him.

Children:

410. JANETTE C., b. Jan 24, 1875.
DAUGHTER; d. in infancy.
SON; d. in infancy.

263. Wealthy Cathcart Abell, born at Goshen, Mass., July 19, 1846; married at Conway, Mass., November 11, 1869 Elisha Thomas Cobb, born April 10, 1846 at Buckland, Mass., probably a descendant of Elder Harry Cobb who landed at Plymouth in 1629. Mrs. Cobb at the advanced age of 76 was residing with her only son and family at Fort Myers, Fla., in 1922.

The famous gun with the indentation of a British bullet on the barrel, being while carried at the battle of Bennington, by Joshua Abell, Jr., fortunately over his heart at that instant, after further service by Capt. George Abell in the War of 1812 has been handed down to the only grandson, below.

Child:

The father of Silas Palmer Abell, dying when Silas was but three years of age, he remained under the care of his mother until nine, when he was put out to work for his board and clothes and allowed to attend the district school in the winter, until sixteen. He then contracted to remain until he was twenty-one, receiving in addition $125.00. Meanwhile he taught school two terms, the payment of $90.00 for which went to his employer. So strong had the attachment grown between his guardian, Col. Julius Clark, and himself, that he continued after his marriage to make his home there, finally purchasing the property, which continued after his death in the possession of his son.

Mr. S. P. Abell followed a varied political career, always standing for what he believed the true principle. At first he was a Democrat, but divided on the slavery question and entered the Free-soil Party. He was elected to two terms in the legislature as a Republican, 1860 and 1880. In 1876 he was a candidate from the 9th district for State Senator. In later years he became a member of the Prohibition Party in accordance with his convictions on that subject. He served many years in the minor political offices, on board of relief, board of selectmen, town agent, notary and justice of the peace. He was called upon to write many wills and frequently was consulted on private as well as public matters. His activity in his church life, being a member of the Congregational Church at Exeter, included service as clerk and on committee assignments, besides filling the office of deacon for nearly twenty years.

324. Col. David Hunter Abell, born October 11, 1810; died March 20, 1872 in Livingston County, N. Y.; married October 10, 1862 Mary Louisa Reed of New York, born February 23, 1841.

Resided at Groveland, N. Y. He was a farmer but retiring from that occupation devoted his whole interest to political affairs and was elected State Senator, Geneseo, N. Y.—In gloomy, weatherbeaten grandeur, ghost-haunted, surrounded by thick pines and evergreens, an old brick house stands deserted by the highway which leads from Geneseo to Mount Morris. It is known as the old Abell place, and once the home of politics and fashion, it now stands lonely except for the legendary ghosts which haunt its cobwebbed halls and dark stairways and the worn and leaning gravestones which keep sentinel behind the pine trees and the house.

As the story goes, twenty years ago when the house was still inhabited, a travelling peddler was mysteriously murdered close by. He was found lying in a deep gulley, his head beaten in, and a large blood stained rock lying near him. Some nights afterward a member of the family which was then living in the Abell place, while going up the dark stairs to bed, tripped over a large rock which was lying on the stairs. A candle was brought and lighted and the stairway was seen to be absolutely empty. The rock had mysteriously disappeared. Night after night the same thing occurred, until in terror the family packed up their goods and chattels and fled from the place. Since that time the house has been uninhabited. It is said that if you watch carefully on a dark night and at the hour of midnight, you can see Colonel Abell, who lived and died there, and whose body is buried in the little cemetery, gallop by on his white horse.

Brave men have visited the old brick house in the night hours, and have returned home breathless, pale with terror, long before daybreak. Whatever they have seen, however true these legends may be—for we are not a credulous people—the Abell house deserves phantoms of the past, whether they exist or no. Few houses carry with them such a past wealth of adventurous and honorable days.

The house was built in about 1860 by Colonel D. H. Abell and constructed of bricks which were drawn at great expense and with much trouble from the old Genesee Valley canal across the flats. The rough unmatched pine boards in the floors, most of them about two feet wide, can still be seen in the old house, but years have shrunk and warped them, leaving inch-wide cracks. The house was erected on the site of the former hamlet of Williamsburg, which had, by the middle of the nineteenth century, dwindled away to a few frame houses. Colonel Abell was just too late to see Williamsburg in the days of its prosperity when it boasted one or two stores, a blacksmith shop, a tavern, a distillery, and a number of dwellings. The village lay on the old stage coach route from Fort Schuyler to Geneva, an Indian path in 1787, and was one of the first settlements of Livingston county. The house was destroyed by fire on July 4th, 1934.

Colonel Abell was at one time State Senator, and during his active years was a power in politics. His home was one of the centers of Genesee Valley society, and was the scene of great gaiety and fashion. The Colonel was also a sporting gentleman, and very fond of betting. When he was undergoing his last illness a consultation of physicians was called, and when it was ended he asked his nurse the verdict. She told him that he was doomed to die, whereupon the Colonel raised himself feebly in bed and in a weak but sporting tone said, "Bet you fifty I don't."

The Colonel was a great friend of the late Captain Craig W. Wadsworth, an older brother of James W. Wadsworth, Sr. He lived with his family, a jovial host to the surrounding countryside, in the old homestead until the early '70's, when he died and was buried in the cemetery at the rear of his home. On the death of Colonel Abell, the estate was sold to W. A. Wadsworth. Until 1902 the house was tenanted by Captain Martin, brother of Edward Sabin Martin, editor of "Life." Since that time it remained deserted, except for its "ghosts."

Charles Rollin Abell and his sister Edith, were left orphans at a tender age and residing among both friends and strangers, lost touch with their nearest of kin and when at an advanced age and in feeble health, he was unable to produce many authentic records, or recall with any degree of accuracy, many items of family history. However, comparing his statements with those of the Rev. Alfred Abell (see No. 205) fairly reasonable deductions are made herein, covering his earlier connections. Mr. Abell completed his education in a course at law, was admitted to the bar and became a practising attorney, both at his home in Massachusetts and also in Minneapolis, Minn. At the time of his marriage he was employed in the Department of Justice, Washington, D. C., where he resided for a decade or more. He enlisted for the Civil War but was not drawn into action.

Children, born in Washington, D. C.:

ALICE EDITH, b. May 12, 1876. Follows an interesting career in the U. S. Diplomatic Service. Transferred from the embassy at Berlin, Germany at outbreak of World War to the U. S. legation at the Hague, Netherlands, thence to Berne, Switzerland, and in 1927 located at Madrid, Spain.

the Italian opera in New York, with his wife, Madame D'Augri, a famous contralto. Her first appearance of note was at Springfield, Mass., at the age of 19, her success on that occasion resulting in her engagement by the Handel and Haydn Society for two concerts, one probably the "Messiah." This was before she went abroad. She was then engaged for leading roles in the Richings English Opera Company for two seasons, after which she went to Milan, Italy, where she studied for two years under Lamperti, the elder, and Sangiovanni, making her debut in the "Barber of Seville" in which she appeared for forty-two successive weeks, afterwards appearing in a repertoire of some eighty-three operas with much success, in Genoa, Milan, Varnese, Novi and other cities. She then went to London where she studied repertoire with Jenny Lind Goldsmidt and Sir Arthur Sullivan, singing in oratorio under the direction of Sir Joseph Barnaby at the Royal Albert Hall, at Windsor with Sir George Elvey and with other directors in various cities. Sir Arthur Sullivan engaged her for a season at the Promenade Concerts at Covent Garden including the part of Little Buttercup in "Pinafore" and she assisted him in obtaining copyrights in the United States, and she sang an engagement with Mapleson in "Rigoletto." There were appearances, too, at Glasgow in the Symphony Concerts. Sir Michael Costa, Sig. Favio Campana and other well known musicians advised Miss Abell to remain in London, but her American engagements obliged her returning to her own country, where she sang in concerts and oratorio in Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston and other cities. She made several concert tours of the States and Canada with Mme. Camilla Urso, the Mendelssohn Quintette Club and other organizations with unvarying success. For several years she confined herself to teaching vocal music in London, Boston and the Twin Cities. Among her best known pupils are Haydn Coffin, the popular London baritone, and Esther (?) Osborn of the Royal Swedish Opera at Stockholm, while many leading vocalists in opera and concert have studied repertoire with her. She was musical critic for the "Boston Transcript" before Philip Hale.

404. Walter William Abell, born February 28, 1872 at "Litter Louna," Pikesville, Md.; married Mary J. (Forbes) Zell, December 30, 1911, daughter of Matthias L. and Emma (Lippincott) Forbes.

Mr. Abell attended private schools and Georgetown University. He was employed as a clerk in the National Marine Bank, assisted his father in administering the affairs of "The Sun," was elected a member of the Board of Directors of the A. S. Abell Company, June 15, 1894. From 1895 his father who had assumed the management of "The Sun" gradually committed it to him. He was elected vice president June 6, 1901, and president June 21, 1904, after the death of his father. The great fire of February 7-8, 1904 which caused the destruction of the "Sun Iron Building" gave added responsibility to the new President. He supervised the removal of the library, records and files to a place of safety and secured the use of the Washington "Evening Star" building and equipment, from which the regular editions of "The Sun" were printed and published without a day's interruption, until the emergency building was made ready in Baltimore. November 17, 1906 "The Sun" occupied the newly erected building at Charles and Baltimore Streets, the selection of the site and supervision of the erection of which devolved upon Mr. Abell.

Mr. Abell resigned the management of "The Sun" April 19, 1909, in order to make a long contemplated journey around the world, he also resigned his directorships in the National Marine Bank and the Eutaw Savings Bank. During his absence he had occasion to decline appointments by Governor Austin E. Crothers on the newly created Public Service Commission as well as to fill an unexpired term to the United States Senate. A few years later he was elected a Director and Vice President of the Crown Cork and Seal Company.

405. Charles Shepherdson Abell, born at "Woodbourne," near Govans, Maryland June 25, 1876; married Elizabeth Carroll Lackey; married 2nd, Mrs. Margaret (Marshall) Baker, July 3, 1912. Educated at private and public schools in Baltimore and at Harvard University, he began newspaper work on "The Sun," and at time of resignation from the A. S. Abell Company in 1910 was vice-president and acting general manager and had been a director of the company since its incorporation in 1892. Mr. Abell then purchased the Norfolk (Virginia) "Landmark" and shortly thereafter began a Monday morning issue giving the city its first seven days a week newspaper. Later the "Landmark" and the "Virginian Pilot" merged, Mr. Abell retaining his interest in the consolidation. Mr. Abell then entered the railroad business with Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Company in Chicago until the United States entered the World War when he attended the second officers' training camp at Fort Myer, Virginia, and later entered the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board. At the conclusion of the war he returned to newspaper work in Norfolk, Virginia, and later became general manager of the "Washington Post." In 1926 Mr. Abell resigned to take a trip around the world with his wife and their two young children.

in Delaware county. In 1864 he consolidated two papers under the name of "Schoharie-Union," in a district abounding in "copperheads," and narrowly escaped assassination at the hands of a mob attacking his office, on account of his support to President Lincoln. Debarred from active duty in the Civil War on account of defective eye-sight he went to Washington and was sworn into service in defence of the capital. He was commissioned by Secretary Chase to sign the first issue of government bonds to meet expenses of the war and at the same time did guard and hospital duty when not required at the Treasury Dept.

Colonel Abell was the organizer and first chairman of the Farmers' League of the State of New York, establishing in its interest "The Farmers Union League Advocate," later published in Albany, N. Y. He served under Horace Greeley on the "New York Tribune" and was editor of the "Albany Express." In 1869 Alonzo B. Cornell, surveyor of the port of New York, appointed Colonel Abell his deputy, which position he filled for four years, after which he was appointed by Collector Arthur of the same port to prosecute certain violations of the navigation laws. In 1879 upon his election as governor of New York State, Mr. Cornell appointed Colonel Abell his private secretary, and he served 3 years. He afterwards served many years as an officer of the Assembly, financial, journal, and assistant clerk, and was appointed to examine the constitutionality of bills introduced. In 1894 he acted as counsel for the state prison investigating committee with creditable record and in same year was elected to the Twelfth Assembly by the largest plurality ever given a candidate in that district. He was reelected in 1896 and served on important committees in each term. He is the author of the "Complete Pocket Edition of the New Primary Election Law" of the State of New York. In 1895 was appointed Police Commissioner of New York City. Retired in 1897 and died at Firthcliffe where he had lived.

471. Alfred E. Abell, born in Wisconsin, March 7, 1850; married about 1875 in Winona County, Minn., Sarah J. Clow. Rem. with his father's family in 1855 to Winona County, Minn. He resides in the City of Winona, and is in the employ of Ry. Company.

Children: Emma, Ora, Mertie, Edwin, Alfred and M. Fern.

472. John Sage Abell, born Constantia, Oswego County, N. Y. July 22, 1834; died June 24, 1905 after a second and fatal stroke of paralysis; married August 11, 1859 Miss Hannah Harshman, died May 25, 1923 in Bloomfield, Mont.

After the death of his father in 1841 he lived with his grandparents until he was ten years of age, then for three years he "worked- out" in the summer and attended school in the winter and for the next three years had to quit school and work out all the time, finally getting his first regular employment on the Erie Canal where he continued until the fall of 1856. He decided to visit his Uncle Lemuel in Winona County, Minn., and in January 1857 with his cousin Austin went to Otisco County, and there purchased from him 80 acres of land which he began to develop for his permanent home.

He entered actively into public affairs and as a result of much reading, close thinking and accurate reasoning displayed more than ordinary ability and executed with great credit and fidelity those public and private duties entrusted to his care. He was town clerk of Otisco for 20 years, justice of the peace 2 terms and elected to the legislature in 1879. He served as county supt. of schools from 1890 to 1894. A few years later his too strenuous life began to score heavily upon his usual good health and early in 1905 he was stricken with paralysis and after a few temporary gains on June 24, 1905 he sustained a second and fatal stroke. He was a man of high principle, a good neighbor, a kind husband and father, and a citizen of whose record Waseca County may well be proud.

Rem. with his father in 1857 to Petaluma, Calif. For convenience and euphony he used the abbreviated form "Frank" and added the initial "G" to his name, becoming known as Frank G. Abell in the photographic business which he followed in San Francisco and the real estate business which he later established in Portland, Oregon, where he settled in 1876. He had some correspondence with Robert Banister Abell (see No. 264) re the Abell family. He attained a fair degree of success and wealth, but of a generous, adventurous disposition, he spent quite as freely. He was Grand Master, A.O.U.W., for Oregon, Washington and Idaho about 1880.

Mr. Abell after receiving his education in the public schools of Buffalo, graduated from Hellmuth College, London, Ont., and there was employed in one of the large wholesale coal concerns, with whom he remained for about five years. He then became connected with the Western Elevating Association, his father having been the president of this concern for a great many years. After the first pipe line to Buffalo had been completed, Mr. Abell resigned to accept a position as superintendent of construction of the marine elevator, which was being built by his father and Daniel O'Day. In 1881 a partnership was formed with Mr. O'Day and continued until 1894, when a stock company took over the business, and Mr. Abell was elected president and manager, and has continued in the grain and elevating business up to this time. In 1898 he formed the C. Lee Abell Company, engaging in all lines of insurance and in 1904 he and his associates bought the Union Fire Insurance Company.

Mr. Abell was a direct descendant of Elder William Brewster, who came to this country on the Mayflower in 1620. His ancestors who came from England settled in Hartford, Conn., later moving to Bennington, Vt. In 1814, his family moved to Fredonia, Chautauqua county, and the family has been connected with the growth of Western New York ever since, having established the first line of stage coaches in 1829 from Erie to Buffalo.

Mr. Abell was a charter member of the Buffalo city guard cadets, was elected captain of C Company of the 74th regiment in 1881, was commissioned major in 1892 and promoted to lieutenant colonel. In 1894 he resigned from the national guard. He was a staunch Democrat and did effective work for his party during the Cleveland campaigns. He was a past master of Landmarks Lodge No. 441, member of Buffalo Consistory, and Hugh de Payens commandery, Ismailia temple and member of the Sons of the American Revolution. During his life he has always taken an active interest in anything that went to further the interest of his city, being a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Corn exchange, former Commodore of the Buffalo Yacht Club, member of the Buffalo Club, Wanakah Club and other social organizations.

soon after. He prepared for Yale University at the Norwich Free Academy, graduating in 1889, but soon after entering Yale decided upon a musical career and in the fall of 1890 went to Germany and studied the violin for four years with the late Carl Halir at Weimar; in January 1894 began to write for the "Musical Courier," N. Y., continuing under a series of "Violin Echos" and as a regular contributor ever since. Late in 1894 he went to Berlin, where he continued his studies with Halir until 1896 when he went to Liege and Brussels, Belgium to study with Thomson. He returned to Berlin in 1898 and for the next six years played in concerts and taught the violin; was engaged for a tour of America which was abandoned on account of failure of his manager, after which he devoted his whole time to musical journalism, being general representative of the "Musical Courier" for Germany until the outbreak of the Great War, his contributions including, "Frederick the Great as a Musician" and "Sidelights on the Career of Paganini."

Mr. Abell returned to New York and continued his writing for the "Courier," and later was transferred to Washington, D. C. Besides being a writer he is a thorough musician and expert on all questions relating to the violin, and a critic of acknowledged authority. His general art formula is based on the strict classical tradition and succession.

He was present at most of the important assemblies in Europe for many years and has met all the prominent artists and composers, their home in Berlin being an international salon where all the musical celebrities were known to gather forming in some respects the most important musical and artistic features of life in the German Capital. See also "International Who's Who in Music" and "Musical Gazette," 1918.

Mr. Abell was living at Kalispell, Mont., in 1924; formerly resided Sioux County, Iowa, where his family was raised. He remembers hearing his grandfather Asa Abell speak of his service in the War of 1812, in which his younger brother Charles was killed. Mr. Abell is the only surviving son, an incident which happened in his line for succeeding generations, and therefore has no close relatives in the Abell lines. While he was living in Iowa in 1884, a salesman of farming implements of New York named Abell called at his home and remarked about their very uncommon name, stating that a genealogy of the family was being compiled at that time. No record was kept of this man's identity nor of the genealogy he referred to.

A memorial tree was planted for him in Lebanon, Conn. His was the only supreme sacrifice from Lebanon.

Like his father, a 33rd degree Mason. The New York "Masonic Standard" of December 28, 1918 relates that a 32nd degree Masonic ring, formerly belonging to Joseph P. Abel, was taken from the finger of a dead German in the Argonne on October 4, by a comrade who gave it into the keeping of Mr. Andrew Wilson, of Braddock, Pa., a brother Mason. Mr. Wilson was wounded and sent to a hospital, and during a period of unconsciousness everything of value was appropriated from his person except this ring, which could not be removed from his swollen finger. This ring was of solid gold and bore on the inside the inscription, "From Joseph P. Abel, Feb. 27, 1888 to Irving N. Gifford. Quid Virtus junxit mora non separabit." After the death of Gifford it was returned by his wife to Mrs. Joseph P. Abel, and passed on to her son, Louis R. Abel, from whose dead body it was undoubtedly taken by the German from whose body it was recovered by Mr. Wilson, and by him restored to Mrs. Joseph P. Abel, mother of Louis Raymond.

APPENDICES

APPENDIX A

Abells from Leicestershire, England

Richard (?) Abell, was a gentleman farmer and proprietor of Red Hall, Frith Hall and White Hall near Leicester, England. It is claimed that the battlefield of Bosworth belonged to this Abell family for several generations. (Refer to Morant's "Essex," Vol II, pages 228-230.)

The head of this sketch left three sons, Thomas (?), Richard, Samuel; and a daughter who married a Mr. Morris of Leicestershire.

THOMAS (?) ABELL, probably father of Richard Abell, whose son, Headly Abell, resided on an inherited estate near Stapleton or Hinckley, Leicestershire.

SAMUEL ABELL, born in Leicestershire about 1800. He died in Derbyshire, date uncertain. Child: Samuel Frederick Abell, born Leicestershire, October 19, 1830; died New York, N. Y., 1871; m. in New York, June 10, 1853, Catherine, dau. Samuel and Martha (Murrell) Cook of London, Eng., b. E. Bloomfield, N. Y., 1834, d. Rochester N. Y., Feb. 23, 1925 at the advanced age of 91 years. Left no surviving children.

1. Richard Abell, being the second son, did not inherit the estate. He married Anne Cooper, only child of a wealthy family, whose estate he enlarged and developed. He resided all his life in Leicestershire, where he died about 1850. Some characteristics of this family such as fair-to-ruddy complexion, light-colored eyes, also mathematical, engineering, writing and musical talents, appear to be common with the American stock. Children, born in Leicestershire:

ANNE COOPER, b. abt. 1821; m. Joseph Thompson; both d. in Leicestershire in 1864. Two children, both died 1862.

GEORGE COOPER, b. abt. 1823; d. in America in 1856 as a consequence of rattlesnake poison.

2. EDMUND RICHARD, b. abt. 1825.

SARAH JANE, b. abt. 1830; d. in America in 1865.

Richard (?) Abell's daughter, who married Mr. Morris, had two sons, E. Samuel Morris, manager of the London and Midland Bank at Melton-Mowbray, Leicestershire, and Richard Morris.

The names of three children of E. Samuel Morris are given as: Ernest Morris of Melton-Mowbray and Lilla Morris of Old Colwyn, N. Wales, and Arthur Morris also of Old Colwyn.

2. Edmund Richard Abell, born at Stoke Golden, Leicestershire, England in 1825 or 1826; educated as a civil and mechanical engineer. Came to America with brother and sister and perhaps his cousin Samuel Frederick, about 1850. In 1854 he married Nancy Ann Noel of Portsmouth, Ohio, who traced her ancestry to the Noel who accompanied William the Conqueror in 1066 from Normandy to England, and on her grandmother's side (who was a Polk, 1st cousin to President Polk) to the French immigrant Joseph De Fuert (Fort). Mr. Abell was located for a time in Minnesota where his elder children were born, and later as chief engineer for the Hudson Bay Company at Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. He died at Joliet, Ill., in 1895. Children:

3. EDMUND JOSEPH, b. July 3, 1855.
GEORGE ALBERT, b. abt. 186–; d. at 4 years of age.
4. ANNIE; m. Leonard H. Wilder.
5. HARRY CLINTON, b. July 8, 1871.

3. Dr. Edmund Joseph Abell, born July 3, 1855; died December 22, 1926. Educated in the medical profession and located at Joliet, Ill. Married Catherine Sanderson of New Brunswick, N. J. They have a son, Capt. Harry Sanderson Abell, born about 1890; graduated from high school in 1906 and from engineering dept. of University of Wisconsin. Went "overseas" in World War as 1st Lieutenant, returning after the war, commissioned Captain. He follows his profession of engineering with headquarters at Washington, D. C. On November 18, 1924, he married Elizabeth Marie, daughter Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmer of McLean, Virginia, where they reside. Also a daughter Annie, who married Hunter Snyder and resided in Denver, Colo. Dr. E. J. Abell married 2nd, Miss Eaton and had Edmund Richard, born about 1910 and Katherine, born May 8, 1911, married Joseph Summerville Minnis, June 6, 1933.

His tablet, unveiled in Christ Church, Joliet, on the Seventh Sunday after Trinity, July 19, 1931, was erected by Harry C. Abell of New York, in memory of his brother. Inscription on tablet:

To the glory of God and in lasting remembrance of Edmund Joseph Abell, Doctor of Medicine, Vestryman of Christ Church 1898-1903. For thirty-five years as a learned and faithful Christian physician he went in and out of the homes of this city ministering to the physical and spiritual needs of others. Born July 3, 1855, died December 22, 1926. "Greater love hath no man than this." He was a man of great learning and wide sympathy, he was possessed of a loyalty of character that made for him a host of friends. His high ideals and sterling character with a strong personality set him up as a real physician among his fellows. Above all, his deep interest in the spiritual life of his patients marked him as one who realized in a very definite way his full duty to God as a faithful Christian.

4. Annie Abell, born in Minnesota but from early childhood her home was in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada; married Prof. Leonard H. Wilder, a native of England, where he received his highly specialized education in the famous South Kensington Art Schools of London and is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts. He has been a teacher of academic art for many years at Chicago (University), Memphis, Denver, and more recently has practiced his art in connection with the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Wilder has won no less marked distinction as a versatile writer, serving as London correspondent of a St. Paul, Minn., newspaper, and is actively interested in all forms of national conservation, including forestry, on which she has both written and lectured extensively. She is also associated with the National Editorial, International League of Press Clubs and General Federation of Women's Clubs and was elected president of the League of American Pen Women. She is a thorough musician, and an advocate of grand opera in English for English-speaking countries. They reside at McLean, Va.

5. Harry Clinton Abell, born at (Fort Garry) Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, July 8, 1871; married June 21, 1902 Fannie M., daughter Logan Martin, lawyer, Att'y-Gen. in 1906 of Alabama, born at Montgomery, Ala. They have one child, Margaret Annette, born in New York in 1905.

   Mr. Abell graduated from the Armour Institute of Technology, B.S. in Electrical Engineering, 1897; specialist and consulting engineer for the Denver Gas and Electric Company, Emerson McMillan and Company, New York, and the American Light and Traction Company, and was elected vice-president of the Electric Bond and Share Company. Following a more extensive specialization in gas engineering he was president of the American Gas Association, in which his activities have embraced the Pacific coast and all sections of the country. Resigned in 1933 from all offices and directorates in the Electric Bond and Share group and its affiliates and retired from active business.

APPENDIX B

Abells of Orange and Albemarle Counties, Virginia

Joseph Abell, who may have been the progenitor of the posterity here given, but owing to the similarity of Christian names it may be quite probable that a connection with the New England families may be established through one of the "other five children" mentioned in the Will of Robert Abell (of whom no further record is found), or some other individual among the several branches remaining uncompleted; or Joseph and Richard Abell may have been brothers and a connection with the Maryland families may be established through Richard Abell, son of Captain Robert Abell, who was in Maryland prior to 1649. (See Appendix-J.)

Richard Abell, first appears in Orange County, Virginia, census of 1782, as head of a family of 8 white persons. Also in a list of Taxable Property, beginning in 1782 and continuing to 1793 which is probably the date of his death. The names Ephraim and Dick appear under his own 1782-1783, presumably as his sons, Ephraim appearing as the head of a family in 1786-1787 and 1790 with Humphrey as a son. The lists of 1794-95 show Jeremiah Abell, presumably succeeding Richard, as his son.

Caleb Abell, also first appears in Orange County, Va., census of 1782, as head of a family of 4 white persons (probably son of the Richard above mentioned). His name also appears in the same list of Taxable Property beginning in 1782 and continuing to 1816, when he probably disposed of last property in Orange County after establishing his home in Albemarle County where he had purchased land in 1798. The Tax List of 1817 indicates Richard S. succeeding his father Caleb, continuing beyond 1823. (Refer to "History of Albemarle County, Virginia," by Rev. Edgar Woods.)

Among the records of Albemarle County, in Will Book 15, page 95, under date of Jan. 28, 1842, appears the will of Andrew Jackson Abell in which he mentions Richard S. Abell and B. F. Abell, but does not state relationship.

Children of Caleb Abell or individuals of the same generation:

6. Alexander Pope Abell, born 1817; married December 14, 1837, Ann T., daughter William McLeod. He was teller of the Monticello and Charlottesville Banks about 1840 and prominent merchant in Charlottesville; County Magistrate in 1843. Removed in 1876 to Greenville, S. C. Children, probably several, including son killed in the Civil War.

7. George Washington Abell, born December 11, 1818; died December 27, 1874. Married Nelson County, Va., June 11, 1845, Mary Ann, daughter Dennis Nally, born November 14, 1826. He entered school at 7 continuing for six years, then in a store in Charlottesville and assistant in the post office, and attended a classical school. After much serious thought he was baptized by his father to the great joy of his parents, and united with the Baptist Church of Charlottesville, and began preparing to follow his father in the ministry, entering the University of Virginia when about 20 years of age. About 1841 after hearing a discourse by R. L. Coleman of the Disciples Church, he united with them after severing his relations with the Baptist Church, causing considerable consternation among his relatives and friends, but his father and family soon became reconciled to this change. In 1844 he visited Scottsville on an evangelical mission and thence to Nelson county where he met the lady who afterwards became his wife and who with other members of the family was baptized by him. After their marriage they lived in Charlottesville for three years, then in 1848 removed to Barboursville, Orange County, where he taught school until 1850, when he began his labors as state evangelist on appointment by the Richmond session of 1849.

The service called him on extensive missions through neighboring counties, the Shenandoah valley, the Chesapeake Bay and Potomac River counties, southwestern Virginia, eastern Tennessee, and one extended through eastern Ohio as far north as Cleveland, returning through western Pennsylvania and West Virginia. In 1852 he moved to Scottsville, Albemarle County, and in December 1853 to Oak Forest, Cumberland County, keeping his family as close to his labors as possible. During the winter of 1863 Mr. Abell acted as chaplain to a North Carolina brigade on the Rapidan river and remained preaching to the army until 1865, resuming his evangelizing missions in the spring of 1866. In 1870 he extended his labors in eastern Tennessee and in 1871 located at Murfreesboro where the last 15 months of his service was expended. In 1874 after returning from a tour of northern Alabama he was taken with pneumonia and after an illness of ten days, passed away on December 27, 1874.

APPENDIX C

Jeremiah Abell's Family of Rockingham County, Virginia

1. Jeremiah Abell, born June 30, 1770 in Rockingham County, Va.; married Hannah Aiken, born May 13, 1771 probably in Rockingham County, early in 1791. His immediate ancestors were said to have come from Maryland and his original immigrant ancestor was said to be one of two brothers coming from Wales at an early period. He was rather undersized in stature. Always of a devout turn of mind, he entered upon the study for the ministry in a Presbyterian College in Kentucky after removal to Adair County in that state about 1800.

He was the owner of some slaves in Virginia and Kentucky, but never in sympathy with the system, he liberated those in his charge before removing to Auburn, Sangamon County, Ill., about 1829. His ministry covered a period of many years in the Presbyterian denomination and he received the distinction of Doctor of Divinity. He later united with the Methodists. About 1846 he removed to McComb, McDonough County, where he died in 1852 and was buried in Argyle Cumberland Church cemetery near Colchester. (See "History of the Early Settlers of Sangamon County, Ill.," by John C. Power, page 76.) His wife died at the home of their son, James Harvey Abell, near Van Buren's, Bond County, Ill., September 14, 1854 and was buried at Old Liberty Church cemetery.

This Jeremiah Abell is claimed to be a different individual from one of the same name mentioned in the Tax Lists of Orange County in 1794-5 but was probably of close relationship. Orange County originally included several of the later adjoining counties. Children:

APPENDIX I

Family of Francis Abell who Came to America with the British Troops

1. Francis Abell, born about 1758 in England; came to America with the British troops in the Revolutionary War. He was taken prisoner in the surrender of Yorktown, Virginia, October 17, 1781, and when released he chose to remain in America. Sometime later, probably in Philadelphia, he met Phoebe O'Connor, a girl of wealthy family, recently from Ireland, whom he married within a few months, probably early in 1782, and they took up their residence at Chester, Delaware County, Pa., where their children were born. About 1800 they removed to Virginia, probably to Rockbridge County in the vicinity of the Natural Bridge and perhaps also to Wythe County, and about 1810 moved on into Knox County, Tennessee, and from there to Mercer, Nelson and perhaps Hardin County, Kentucky. (This family seems to have some connection with the family of George Abell, see Appendix J, No. 13.) Children:

He came from Ky. to Indiana in a covered wagon drawn by oxen, settling for a time near Paoli and Orleans, in Orange County, where he met and married Julia Anne Harvey, daughter of John and Catherine (Edwards) Boone, on September 20, 1849. She was born December 21, 1833, and died at Louisville, Ill., Sept. 23, 1873. She was the granddaughter of Solomon Boone, born June 20, 1769, and Lavina Wells and on her mother's side of Isaac and Julia (Featherhill) Edwards. She was a great granddaughter of William Boone and Sarah Lincoln, a great aunt of President Abraham Lincoln, and was closely related to Daniel Boone, famous Indian scout and explorer. Mr. Geo. W. Abell was the typical Kentucky gentleman in his personal characteristics and was a farmer or planter of the well-to-do class, limiting his activities to the management of his extensive estates which were noted for true "southern" hospitality. Later he removed to Louisville, Clay County, Ill., where after the death of his wife, he married 2nd, on December 24, 1873, Mrs. Marie (Ingraham) Ballard.

APPENDIX J

Captain Robert Abell of Maryland and Some of His Descendants

Some of the following records were obtained from a book entitled, "Origins of Clements-Spalding and Allied Families of Maryland, and Kentucky," by Mr. J. W. S. Clements, Louisville, Kentucky. The author has courteously permitted us to use these records.

Captain Robert Abell, in Maryland prior to 1649, the progenitor of the posterity here given, is the second Abell immigrant to America from England. The Christian names of his immediate descendants would indicate that he and Robert Abell, of Weymouth, Mass., 1630, the first immigrant, were of the same English ancestry, the Derbyshire branch.

Under appendix "B" a Richard Abell first appears in Orange County, Virginia, in 1782, as head of a family, who probably was the progenitor of all the Abells in Virginia. It may be possible that this Richard Abell of Virginia may have been a descendant of Richard Abell, who was sued and attached in St. Mary's and Calvert Counties, Maryland in 1658, a brother or son of Captain Robert Abell. This might indicate that the Abells of Virginia, Maryland and Kentucky are descendants from a common ancestor who immigrated to America prior to 1649.

1. Capt. Robert Abell. The first of the name to enter Maryland was Captain Robert Abell, in the earlier years of the settlement. It is not known whether he earned his title as commander of a ship or as a militia officer but the fact that his name is not connected with the ownership of real estate, and failure to find a will or other evidence of his dying in the Colony, impels the conclusion that he was a seaman, trading with the Colony, and after settling some or all of his children in the Colony returned to England and died there. It is certain he was engaged in business in the Colony before 1649 for in that year he, by his attorney, Cuthbert Fenwick, sued one David O'Doherty for 1000 pounds of tobacco as is told in Maryland Archives. Family names, and location in St. Mary's County indicate to a reasonable certainty that Captain Robert Abell was our ancestor though no other reference to him is found. A Richard Abell was sued and attached in St. Mary's and Calvert counties in 1658 (the family settled near the line of separation) and he probably was the oldest son of the Captain though possibly a brother. Much study indicates that Captain Abell left in Maryland his sons, Richard, Samuel and probably one named Cuthbert, though latter may have been a son of Richard. There was a James also referred to in a record 1671, and a William in 1724, who may have been sons of either Captain or Richard. The names are unusual in the family though found. James Abell, a servant, was transported to Baltimore County in 1664; Charles Abell, a servant, transported 1669, and Robert Abell transported 1675 by James Inces into Baltimore County. Hendrick Abell, a cordwainer, came in on his own resources to Somerset County 1667, bringing his wife Sophia and children, Joseph, Macklett and Gartrick called servants and for which he got 200 acres of land.

Children of Captain Robert Abell or individuals of the same generation:

2. RICHARD.
3. WILLIAM.
   CUTHBERT.
   JAMES.
4. SAMUEL.

2. 3. Richard Abell-William Abell. No further trace of Richard or William Abell, the possible brothers of testator, but it is certain they left sons and daughters. Cuthbert Abell, a vestryman at All Faiths', 1742, and the younger Cuthbert were of this descent, as was Jonathan, soldier of the Revolution, and another a collector or farmer of taxes in St. Mary's County 1772. Of this line was Cuthbert Abell, a Sergeant in the Revolution, died testate 1786 and left Clark, Philip, Cuthbert and Enoch. He married Mary Milburn.

Descendant of William Abell:

WILLIAM; married Jane Cox-Mahoney before 1733, if not the elder himself.

Descendants of Richard or William Abell:

CUTHBERT, vestryman 1742.
CUTHBERT, the younger.
JONATHAN, Revolution soldier.
JONATHAN, collector or farmer of taxes 1772.

Children of Cuthbert Abell, died testate 1786:
CLARK.
PHILIP.
CUTHBERT.
MARY.
5. ENOCH.

4. Samuel Abell I; it is certain that Samuel Abell I, who died testate in St. Mary's County in 1698, was an ancester. As there is no sign of his coming into the Colony, he must have been born there, or brought in as a child, by his father, and probably Captain Robert Abell's son. He leaves to "my son John my Lord's Manor and 120 acres all on other side of Napkin's Run; to my son Samuel my dwelling plantation on this side of Napkin Run, and the remainder of my estate, real and personal to my wife Ann, and appoint her my executrix." Witnesses: Edward Cole and Luke Gardiner. The maiden name of Ann cannot be discovered but suspect it was Gardiner. Children:

6. JOHN.
7. SAMUEL II.
ROBERT (probably).

5. Enoch Abell; died testate in 1784. Children:

GEORGE.
JOHN BROOKS, Captain in the Revolution.
8. CUTHBERT.
FRANCIS.

6. John Abell, son of Samuel Abell I, attested Peacock's will in 1709 and appeared in church records with his brother Samuel Abell II. He had a son John who was called Jr., and retained that style to his death though had a son John Abell, Sr., and a grandson John Abell, youngest. Children:

9. JOHN, SR.
10. JOHN, JR.; died testate in 1794.

7. Samuel Abell II, was born about 1675; married about 1704, Winifred Hall. Educated for his day, ambitious, aspiring, a prominent citizen and officer holder in St. Mary's County, throughout his active life, a course rendered possible only by conforming to the Church of England. He acted as Episcopal vestryman and held civil office between 1720 and 1750, as justice of the peace, sheriff, and member of House of Burgesses, for St. Mary's County. The records of All Faiths' Episcopal Church show he was vestryman in 1723-42, while his brother John was warden, and in 1749, a vestryman.

Samuel's protestantism does not seem to have been wholly convincing to his fellow parishioners, for we find that in 1737 he was required to and did, take the test oath. He died probably before 1755. There is no will, or other reference to his death. By putting together scattered hints it has been determined that he married Winifred Hall, daughter Simeon Hall, who died testate in St. Mary's County in 1717 and devised all the property he owned in Maryland to Samuel Abell, while that located at South Shield's, Durham County, England, he left to his cousins, the Misses Brown. In 1725 we find a Winifred Abell attesting a will. This is about all we can discover of this worthy pair, except that for certain they had a son Samuel III, ordinarily and irreverently called among his descendants "old Sheriff Samuel Abell" and who styled himself Samuel Abell, Jr., even in his will, though then the eldest of that name. We have missed so far, the name Robert which should have appeared if the founder was Captain Robert. The theory is, that Samuel Abell I had a son so named who died in infancy, or without issue, and that Samuel II also had a son Robert who became the father of Samuel Abell, the youngest. In some way the name was kept alive and in the later generations became the favorite name, though but very seldom in the early history of St. Mary's County. Children:

WINIFRED (probably).
11. SAMUEL III.
12. ROBERT (probably).

8. Cuthbert Abell; died testate 1794. Children: Matthew, Francis, Mary Milburn and Simmonds.

9. John Abell, Sr.; died testate 1746; married Frances Howell, widow, before 1746. Children:

13. JOHN HOWELL; m. Ann Urquhart, dau. Peter, before 1788.
14. ENOCH.

WINIFRED HUTCHINGS.

10. John Abell, youngest, probably son of John Abell, Jr., who died testate in 1794. Children of John Abell, youngest:

JOHN STANSFIELD.

JOHN HORN; Capt. in the Rev. Militia. His will proved 1801 refers to Wm. Bennet and sister Dunbar's children.

ANN.

SUSANNA SIMMONS.

ANNA BISCOE.

11. Samuel Abell, III; died 1777; became a wealthy and prominent man long before his father's death, succeeding to the very offices his father held, religious and civil, always styling himself Jr., while his own son, Samuel IV was styled Sr., and his nephew, son of the supposititious Robert, was styled Samuel Abell, youngest. Like his father he lived outwardly a Protestant. He was a well-educated, strong-minded man, held all sorts of offices from deputy commissioner to settle accounts, to that of a Burgess and high sheriff, filling both places often as well as the inspectorship of tobacco. He was a member of All Faiths' Church. He married probably before 1720, Eleanor O'Bryan, usually referred to as O'Brien. She was a daughter of Philip, a son of Mathias, or it may be a grandson, and her oldest son, Philip Abell, was named for his grandfather, while her oldest daughter was called Winifred for the mother of her husband. Samuel Abell III executed his will on the 1st day of July 1774, witnessed by John Abell, of Samuel, Thomas and Arthur Abell, of his son John. He died the last day of June 1777, as the Revolution was getting well under way. Owing to confusing Samuel III, always styled Jr., with his son Samuel IV a major in the Revolution and always styled Sr., it has been claimed the former was in someway connected with the Revolution. He was a feeble octogenarian when the trouble arose, preparing to die, most likely was not in sympathy with the movement and certainly took no part in it. To his wife he willed his best bed clothes, one-third interest in his water and bolting mill, personalty, and a negro for her natural life; to grandson Elisha Morgan a negro girl and another to his grandson Bennett Wimsatt; to daughter Eleanor a third of his personalty and all the rest of his estate, real and personal, including remainder in mother's estate, to his sons Samuel and Robert made executors. Executors were empowered to sell four slaves to pay debts. The will was probated July 15, 1777, when his son Samuel for the first time was styled Jr., although the event made him Sr. On August 14, 1777, Eleanor, his daughter, appeared in court and renounced all the provisions of his will and claimed her dower rights. He was the strongest of all Abells, cold to last, ignoring most of his children in his will, carrying out the old feudal idea of favoring the sons and taking a final shot at his sons-in-law, whom he did not deign to name. Children:

PHILIP; m. Ann Draydon before 1772. He died before his father; son Philip, m. Hellen Peake, 1806.

15. SAMUEL IV.

16. JOHN; not named in his father's will.

WINIFRED; m. Benjamin Morgan, well-known family in St. Mary's County.

17. ROBERT.

ELEANOR; m. probably Samuel Abell, youngest.

ALTHEA; m. Benedict Spalding. He was private in Md. Militia. She was named for a famous ship that sailed the waters of the Chesapeake, crossing back and forth to England. They had 11 children. Son Thomas, m. Susan Abell.

MARY; will 1815. She devised to her nephew Abner (evidently Rev. A. Abell) and niece Eleanor, children of Robert Abell, to Mary Wimsatt, daughter of Bennet, Elizabeth Spalding (of Bennet evidently), Winifred Morgan and her sisters Winifred (Morgan), Dorothy (Wimsatt) and Alethea (Spalding).

DOROTHY; m. Mr. Bob Wimsatt.

12. Robert Abell, probably son of Samuel Abell II; Samuel Abell styled youngest, the son or grandson of a supposititious Robert, brother of Samuel Abell III, with whom he was closely allied. Child:

18. SAMUEL ABELL, styled youngest.

13. George Abell, probably son of John Howell Abell, wealthiest of the name in St. Mary's County, came to Nelson County, Kentucky, prior to 1790 bringing a large family. He died testate in Nelson County, 1804, leaving wife Elizabeth, daughters Elizabeth, Catherine and Judith, sons Enoch Booth, Francis and Pollard. This branch, descended from John Abell, Sr., brother of Samuel Abell II, and his son John Abell, Jr., had intermarried with the wealthy and prominent family descended from John Pollard of Eastern Shore, a very important man in the early history of Maryland. (This family appears to be related to the family of Francis Abell, see Appendix I.) Children:

ELIZABETH.

CATHERINE.

JUDITH.

ENOCH BOOTH; m. Teresa Greenwell June 3, 1810.

FRANCIS.

POLLARD, b. 1777; m. Caty Miller Aug. 23, 1800, dau. of David Miller. He came with the family to Nelson County, Kentucky.

14. Enoch Abell, son of John Abell, Sr., died testate 1783. His wife Judith renounced his will. Jos. Abell, Philip Abell and Bennet Hutchings attested it. Children:

GEORGE.

19. FRANCIS; m. Susanna.

20. JOHN BOOTH; m. Elizabeth Abell.

CUTHBERT.

15. Samuel Abell IV, born about 1725; married Susanna Spalding, daughter Thomas Spalding and Catherine Cooper. Samuel Abell held the important office of tobacco inspector at Cole's Warehouse up to December 23, 1776, when he resigned on being elected high sheriff of St. Mary's County. He was in January 1776, commissioned major in the Lower Battalion of St. Mary's County and given his correct style of Sr., though his father still lived, which has led to the error already noticed. His son Ignatius was commissioned captain in said battalion August 26, 1777 and on same day his son John Barton, a lieutenant, usually enrolled Barton but styled Captain John Barton. On August 30, 1780, Captain Ignatius was appointed tobacco inspector for Leonardtown, resigned as Captain and his brother John Barton took his place. The brother Edward also was in said battalion as captain of militia. Samuel Abell IV was sheriff and major at same time, the service being local in guarding against a possible landing by the English. Samuel Abell, as major, officiated with other high military officers July 1, 1776, at Leonardtown, Colonel Abe Barnes in the chair, when leave was given to Daniel Wolstonholme to return to England. Major or Samuel Abell IV came to old Washington County with his brother-in-law Benedict Spalding and others after 1790 and settled on the Rolling Fork in what became the Calvary Settlement. Already an old man, he survived only to 1795, which had the effect of leaving his name in oblivion. Son of a prominent man, to whose position as a holder of civil offices, he succeeded, magistrate, a burgess and inspector of tobacco, a most important office, as tobacco was then money, high sheriff of St. Mary's County, a major in Revolutionary Army Militia, with three sons and a son-in-law, Ensign John Heard, in his battalion, it is passing strange that he has been overlooked by Kentucky historians. Where he is buried is unknown, for there was no Calvary cemetery when he died. The spot should be found and marked by his descendants. He died testate June 1, 1795. He was accompanied to Kentucky by a part of his children and brought many slaves. More prudent and thrifty than his youngest brother Robert, he died in his own home, surrounded by his family, the owner of a very considerable estate for his day. To his son Edward who had remained in Maryland he bequeathed the five negroes he had left in his possession, to Barton he gave money and two negroes, to his daughter Elizabeth Fenwick negroes for life, remainder to his grandsons Bennet and John Thomas, saying his son Peter had already gotten his share, gave a negro to his son Ignatius, to daughter Mary Ann Bowes twenty pounds, to daughter Henrietta Thomas a negro, to daughter Susanna Heard personalty, to grandson Joseph Abell a negro, and to his son Joshua the remainder of his estate including his lands making him executor. Others probably had previous aid. Benedict Spalding and Robert Abell witnesses.

Children:

EDWARD.

21. (Capt.) JOHN BARTON.

ELIZABETH FENWICK.

22. PETER.

IGNATIUS; was a prominent man in Maryland and may never have come to Kentucky. He was Captain in Lower Battalion of St. Mary's County.

MARY ANN BOWES.

HENRIETTA; m. Mr. Thomas; sons Bennett and John (Jack). Bennett m. Ann Abell 1798 and John (Jack) m. Susana Hilton 1797, leaving a son Abell Thomas who m. Dorothy Tucker, left a son John m. Anette Beaven.

SUSANA HEARD.

23. JOSHUA.

16. John Abell, son of Samuel Abell III, Captain of Militia in the Revolution, died testate 1781 and left Abell's Scuffle to his son Zach and Wells Hope to his sons Arthur and Henry and other lands and negroes to his son Thomas, whose granddaughter Margaret A. Nuthall married J. F. Duke of the Kentucky-Maryland family, a Confederate soldier, whose son, W. B. Duke, married Jennie, widow of the rich Baltimore Journalist, George Abell, built the $100,000 hotel at Leonardtown, Md., and has two sisters nuns, one at Lexington and other at Paris, Ky. John made provisions for Ann, his wife and executrix. Samuel Abell, Sr., Samuel Abell, youngest and Cuthbert Fenwick were the attesting witnesses. Children: Zach, Arthur, Henry, Thomas.

17. Robert Abell, son of Samuel Abell III; died in Maryland September 13, 1802, aged 46 years; married Margaret Mills, of Maryland. She died February 19, 1818, aged 59 years, at St. Thomas, Ky. After several years spent about Loretto undoubtedly selected Calvary as a place of settlement for his kin and neighbors of St. Mary's County, Maryland. He and his oldest brother Samuel Abell IV bought lands on Cloyd's Creek near the river. He was recommended for magistrate in 1788 with Hannaniah Lincoln, gentleman; was elected several times to represent Nelson and then Washington County in the Legislature and as a member of the first Constitutional Convention. As a magistrate he presided in the first term of the Washington County Court held at Springfield in June 1792. He was a sort of country lawyer, wrote many wills, deeds and other instruments, but does not seem to have had the thrift usual in his family. His little fortune was soon gone and becoming involved in debt in 1802 he left Kentucky for no known reason and went back to Maryland on a visit, it is said, where he died. Children:

24. SAMUEL.
25. JESSE.
26. JAMES.
27. ROBERT ABNER, Rev.
    IGNATIUS; m. Elizabeth Shofner; one child, d. young.
28. BENNETT; m. Eliz. Owens.
29. ELIZABETH (Betsy).
30. PAUNIE (probably Janet).
    MARY, first person to be buried in Convent Cemetery of Calvary, Ky. Oct. 1805.
    JOHN.
31. ELLEN or ELENORA.

18. Samuel Abell youngest; probably married Eleanor, the only one of his daughters that Samuel Abell III names in his will.

    Children:

    SAMUEL, b. Jan. 13, 1755.
    ROBERT, b. May 8, 1757.
    ABNER, b. July 29, 1759. These births are recorded not in All Faiths' but in St. Andrew's parish.

19. Francis Abell; married Susanna. His will dated March 6, 1805. In 1790 census, St. Mary's County, Md. with 5 dependents and 4 slaves. Children: James, Eliel, Sophia, Judith and Robert.

20. John Booth Abell; married Elizabeth Abell, daughter John Abell. His will probated August 5, 1794. In 1790 census, St. Mary's County, Md., with 6 dependents and 7 slaves.

    Children:

    JANE.
    ENOCH B.; m. Ann Norriss or Harriss July 6, 1817; had son James F. Abell, m. Maria J. Nuthall, July 16, 1850; son Enoch B. Abell, m. Kate M. Camalier Sept. 1, 1886. Children of Enoch B. and Kate M. (Camalier) Abell: Benjamin Kennedy, Ellen Margurite, Mary Elizabeth, James Franklin, Marie Heloise.

21. Capt. John Barton Abell, called Barton to distinguish him even in the Army from the numerous Johns, was born about 1755; married in Maryland about 1780, Elizabeth Heard and his sister, Susana, married her brother John Heard. They were the children of Mark Heard of St. Mary's County, a wealthy planter belonging to one of the largest and most prominent families in South Maryland. All the descendants of Captain John Barton Abell are eligible to the society of The Ark and Dove, a very recherché and exclusive society of Annapolis, Md. He joined the St. Mary's County Militia at the outbreak of the Revolution, commissioned lieutenant

August 26, 1777, and on June 22, 1780, was commissioned as Captain when his brother, Captain Ignatius, resigned to become inspector of tobacco at Leonardtown. He came to Kentucky with his father, bringing his young family and some slaves with him. He was a planter near Calvary, sold his land and removed to the Caney Creek farm which he had bought. It is not known when his wife died but it was sometime prior to August 9, 1813, for on that day he married Dorothy Wimsatt, who survived him. There seemed to be, in that day, a Wimsatt wife for everybody in Maryland and Kentucky. He died testate about February 1, 1820 and was buried at Calvary. He bequeathed personalty to his eldest daughter, Susana, who had married Thomas Spalding of Benedict, to daughter Dorothy, married Robert Abell 1813, to Ann, married Joseph Spalding, and to his widow Dorothy, but left the land and most of his other property to his only son John (Jack) Heard Abell, whom he made executor. John Barton Abell in 1790 census, St. Mary's County, Md., with 4 dependents and 3 slaves. Children:

SUSANA; m. Thomas Spalding.

DOROTHY; m. Robert Abell 1813.

ANN; m. Joseph Spalding.

32. JOHN (JACK) HEARD.

22. Peter Abell, first Catholic colonist of St. Mary's County to reach Kentucky. In 1783 he got a grant of 2500 acres in what is now Nelson County, on Pottinger's Creek, Fox and Billy runs, and later he got one for 1000 acres in what is now Breckinridge County. It is certain he made the mistake of selecting thin lands and directing to them the first Catholic settlement of Kentucky. This forerunner of the Pottinger's Creek County is not noticed by Spalding, or Webb, or other writers. He brought his large family with him. His uncle, Robert Abell, led other settlers there as early as 1795. George Abell, probably son of John P. Abell, came out prior to 1790. From Peter and George Abell sprang the Nelson County Abells, to scatter later like their kinsmen of Washington County, all over the West. Peter Abell may have gone to Breckinridge County where he had land and died there. Probably married Lucy (——). Children:

WILLIAM; m. Eleanor Higgins Jan. 25, 1793, and represented Nelson County in Legislature in 1799.

IGNATIUS; m. Christian Polke Dec. 22, 1794, dau. Edmond Polke.

JENET; m. Samuel Abell (see No. 24).

JESSE; m. Rebecca Abell 1805.

SARA, b. Oct. 25, 1769 (twin to Lucy).

LUCY, b. Oct. 25, 1769.

33. EDWARD.

23. Joshua Abell; died testate in Washington County, Kentucky, 1814, will made 1811. He devised the plantation on which he lived to his son Bernard, to his son Aloysius he gave his home plantation on the south side of Rolling Fork, to his son Callistus land, personalty to daughters Matilda, Mary and Salinda, rest to his children Joseph, William, Matilda, Cornelius, Mary and Julia. Will attested by Benedict Spalding, John Barton Abell and Bernard Mills. Joshua probably married Susannah Mills, a sister of his Uncle Robert's wife, before he left Maryland. It will be noticed that when his uncle's land was sold at bankrupt sale, he purchased for $60, the 200 acres, manifestly for the benefit of the family. All the neighbors were either kin, or in sympathy with the unfortunate family and nobody could be induced to bid against him. Most of the Abells, yet to be found in the old Calvary neighborhood, are descended from Joshua and it would be hard to find anyone there not in some way connected with his descendants. Children:

BERNARD; m. Clarissa Wimsatt 1811.
ALOYSIUS.
CALLISTUS.
MATILDA.
MARY.
SALINA.
JOSEPH ABNER; m. Belinda Wimsatt 1819. Joseph Abner, Jr., m. Martha Mills.

27. Rev. Robert A. Abell, born in Washington County, now Marion County, Ky., in 1792. Ordained a Priest August 14, 1818. He was a physical and intellectual giant and probably the most gifted man who ever bore the name. He is mentioned in Mary Abell's will 1815. He was the Priest who is usually referred to as "Old Father Robert A. Abell."

28. Bennett Abell; married Elizabeth (Betsy) Owens; both of Kentucky. He is mentioned in Mary Abell's will, 1815, daughter of Samuel Abell III. Children:
NANCY OWENS, b. Aug. 3, 1824 in Kentucky; d. May 24, 1903 in Nebraska; m. 1840 Lynn McNutty Green, b. June 11, 1814 in Tenn., d. June 23, 1882, in Nebraska.

Abells from Plymouth, England

JOSEPH ABELL FAMILY

Joseph Abell, living in Plymouth and engaged in transportation by coach between Plymouth and Exeter, England, and his wife, Anne Abell, raised a family of seven sons, "each having a sister." Their names were: Richard, William, John, Henry, Thomas, Joseph, Israel, and Mary Anne the sister.

In the early summer of 1854, Richard, Henry, and Joseph took passage on a sailing vessel from Plymouth and in six weeks and three days landed in Montreal, Canada, and soon after settled on farms in the Township of East Zorra, Oxford County, Ontario, Canada. Several years later Thomas and Israel came to Canada and settled in the same Township. William and John and the sister remained in England. Mary Anne later married a man of the name of Merrifield.

Joseph Abell, born 1839; married July 4, 1860, Sarah Jane Thompson, daughter of William Thompson and Sarah Jane Bailey. Joseph Abell died December 17, 1896 and is buried in the Baptist Cemetery at Woodstock, Ontario, beside his wife who died May 20, 1915. The Bailey family were descendants of a very large and old English family, of whom several had settled in Oxford County. William Thompson was an American living in Detroit, Michigan.

APPENDIX M

Abells of Shenandoah County, Virginia

RECORDS SUPPLIED BY MR. FRANK E. HEPNER, LARAMIE, WYOMING

"Records of Shenandoah county, Va., show that a John Abel married Jane Williams, October 31, 1788, John Pickett minister. Also in Will Book A, Page 6, is a will of Jos. (or Jas.) Abell naming wife Jane, sons John, George, daughter Margaret, grandsons Jos. (or Jas.), Jeremiah and Ezekiel. Will written November 25, 1771, probated May 26, 1772. My informant's writing is not very plain and consequently I am not sure whether she wrote Jas. or Jos. In one place she spells the word Abel and in another Abell. Possibly both spellings occurred in the originals. While these do not connect up directly with my great grandfather who was born in 1801, still it shows that there were Abel's or Abell's in Shenandoah county, Va. about the time he was supposed to have been born there. I am, therefore, of the opinion that John Abel was connected to these families in some way but just how is still to be determined."

John Abel, born July 20, 1801, probably in Shenandoah county, Va.; died at the home of his daughter, Phoebe, at Afton, Iowa, May 10, 1888. He married Catherine Funk, probably in Shenandoah county, Va. about 1825. In his younger days he was a school teacher but later became a carpenter and followed that trade up to the time of his death. After his marriage he moved to or near Cincinnati (?), Ohio. Later he is said to have moved to Ross county, Ohio. Still later he moved to Lafayette county, Wisconsin. After the death of his wife he lived with his daughter, Phoebe, at Afton, Iowa.

His wife, Catherine Funk, was born May 15 (or 17), 1802, probably in Shenandoah county, Va. She died June 6, 1879 at the home of her son, Benjamin, at South Wayne, Wisconsin. She married first John Grandstaff by whom she had two daughters, Maria, born January 26, 1820, and Elizabeth Anna, born October 8, 1821, both in Shenandoah county, Va. (Nothing further is known about John Grandstaff or these two children.) Efforts to connect this Catherine with some of the Funk families known to have been living in that part of Virginia have thus far failed, though without doubt she was so connected. The name of Catherine occurs in the records of two or three of these families and while none of them are this Catherine the fact that there were several of the same name would suggest the thought that they all had a common ancestor or relative after whom they had all been named. John and Catherine Abel had five children: Polly, Phoebe, Andrew, Morgan, and Benjamin Franklin.

Polly Abel, born October 28, 1827 near Cincinnati (?), Ohio; died December 22, 1915, at South Wayne, Wisconsin; married Aquella Duvall, a farmer in Ohio. Four children were born here: Henry Duvall; John Duvall; Annett Duvall (who married William Arnold); and an unnamed child who died in infancy. They then moved to Lafayette county, Wis., here: Catherine Duvall, born Aug. 14, 1866 (who married James W. Smith); William Duvall; Frank Duvall.

Phoebe Abel, born December 13, 1829 in Ohio; died March 23, 1914 at Afton, Iowa; married (probably in Wisconsin) a farmer, James Eastman, son of John J. Eastman (see children of Amos Eastman, No. 640, of Rix's "Eastman Genealogy"). Her children were: Joseph, Rollie, Frank, and Mary.

Andrew Abel, born May 17, 1832 in Ohio; died January 9, 1916 in Richland county, Wis. He was a farmer. He was married but the name of his wife and those of his children, if any, is unknown. He is reported to have been a Civil War soldier.

Morgan Abel, born December 5, 1836 in Ohio; died September 21, 1918 at Wasioja, Dodge county, Minn.; married August 5, 1855, Mary Ann, daughter of Alva H. Eastman (see children of Amos Eastman, No. 640, of Rix's "Eastman Genealogy"). Whether they were married in Ohio or Wisconsin is not known. He served with Company D, Tenth Minn. Volunteers in the Civil War from August 21, 1862 to February 17, 1864 when he was discharged for disability. For some years he was on a farm at Mineola, Minn: Later, after the war, he ran a wagon-maker's shop at Fairpoint, Goodhue county, Minn. Later he moved to Wasioja, Dodge county, Minn., and there operated an old style stone-burr flour and feed mill. In his later years he acted as agent for the railroad company at Wasioja. He is buried at Wasioja as is also his wife, who was born June 14, 1837 and died October 1, 1920. He had ten children:

LUTHERA ANNIS (who married Geo. F. Hepner and later S. S. Castle), born July 1, 1856 in Layfayette county, Wis.

JAMES ANDREW, b. Aug. 24, 1858, Lafayette county, Wis.

SARAH THEODOCIA (who married Joseph S. Cooper), born Feb. 17, 1861 at Mineola, Goodhue county, Minn.

GEORGE ARTHUR, b. May 20, 1863, Mineola, Minn.

ROSAMOND (who married Frank House), born Jan. 16, 1865 at Mineola, Goodhue county, Minn.

PHEBA JANE (who married Charles N. Pearley), born Jan. 16, 1868 at Fairpoint, Goodhue county, Minn.

ELMER EDWIN, b. Sept. 11, 1870, Fairpoint, Minn.

ALFRED, b. May 6, 1873, Fairpoint, Minn.

ANNA CORNELIA (who married John Maas), born May 6, 1875 at Fairpoint.

MAYETTA (who married Edgar Ingersoll), born Dec. 17, 1877 at Wasioja, Dodge county, Minn.

Benjamin Franklin Abel, born April 2, 1839 in Ohio; died November 17, 1917 at Esmond, South Dakota. He lived for some years at South Wayne, Lafayette county, Wis. It is reported that he was a Civil War soldier. He was a farmer. The names of his wife and children are not known though some of them live at or near Esmond, S. D.
